ROLL OF HONOUR.

IN MEMORIAM.

BYRNE—In loving and ever-grateful memory of Herbert J. Byrne, Corporal, 17th Battn. Australian Infantry, who died on July 19, 1918, of wounds received in action near Villers Brettoneaux.

DONALDSON—In proud and loving memory of Capts. Geoffrey Boles, John E., and Bernard Donaldson, who gave their young lives for home, country, and "Peace with Honour."

GRIMWOOD—Second Anniversary—In sad and loving memory of my dear son, Sergt.-Major W. Grimwood, Irish Guards, killed in action July 20, 1917. Deeply regretted by his mother and sisters. "Thy will be done."

Sleep, soldier, though many regret thee
Who read the sad news to-day;
Soon will thy comrades forget thee,
Thy memory like sunshine pass away;
But there's one who will still pay the tribute
Of her tears to a good son and brave,
Who fell while doing his duty—
He rests in peace in a far-off grave.

LOVEROCK—In ever-loving memory of Mervyn C. Loverock, South African Infantry, killed in action at Delville Wood, July 19, 1916.

MARKES—In ever-loving and glorious memory of John Carlon Markes, Brigade Major, 53rd Infantry Brigade, killed whilst on reconnaissance duty, Delville Wood, July 19, 1916. R.I.P.

MURPHY—In ever-loving memory of Lieutenant Christopher John Murphy, Royal Munster Fusiliers, who was killed in action in France July 20, 1916. R.I.P.

PIERCE—In loving memory of Rifleman John Pierce, New Zealand Rifle Brigade, died July 19, 1916, from wounds received in action in France, son of William and Elizabeth Pierce, Ballycale, Gorey, Co. Wexford.

We did not know what pain he bore,
We did not see him die,
We only knew he passed away,
And never said good-bye.

BIRTHS.

RESULTS

always tell! They provide the most striking—and indeed the only trustworthy—evidence of the success or failure of any particular form of medicinal treatment. Now it is an interesting and noteworthy fact that people who have once adopted Beecham's Pills as a family medicine continue to place the utmost confidence in them. This can only mean that the results are satisfactory. Sensible people do not persevere with any treatment which does not produce satisfactory results. Medicines, like many other things, are praised or condemned, continued or abandoned, according to the results which they achieve. Beecham's Pills are prepared for a particular purpose—to relieve and cure the numerous ailments which have their origin in a disordered digestive system. That they do actually bring about the results for which they were designed has been proved in myriads of instances during the lengthy period they have been before the public. Results always tell! They tell—with an emphasis which it is impossible to ignore — that there is splendid value in every box of

LAW REPORTS.

DUNDALK MARRIAGE SETTLEMENT.—In the Chancery Division yesterday, before the Master of the Rolls, a case of Wynne v. Wynne was heard. The action was brought by James Wynne, builder and contractor, Dundalk, against his wife, Rosa Mary Wynne, to have set aside a marriage settlement executed on the occasion of their marriage in December, 1916. It appeared that by the deed the plaintiff settled 24 houses in Dundalk in trust for himself for life, and after his death in trust for his wife absolutely, and he ought to set it aside on the ground that he never intended to give his wife an absolute estate in the property in case she should survive him. The defendant contended that the deed, as executed, carried out the true agreement come to between them. The writ in the action was served about a year ago, and as the plaintiff had since taken no step to bring the case to trial, it now came before the Court on the defendant's notice of motion for judgment, and to have the action dismissed. There was no appearance on behalf of the plaintiff. Mr. T. M. Healy, K.C., with whom were Mr. John Muldoon, K.C., and Mr. Joseph O'Connor (instructed by Mr. John M. McDowell) on behalf of the defendant, Mrs. Wynne, called the attention of the Court to the delay that had taken place and the circumstances under which the case came before the Court. He said that the wife adopted this course as an absolute necessity. Her husband deserted her because she refused to have the deed modified. He was away from her, and had refused even to pay for her necessaries. The defendant asked that the action should be dismissed so that she might make title to the houses and have them put up for auction so far as her interest in them was concerned, in order that she might have some maintenance. The Master of the Rolls dismissed the action with costs. Mr. Vincent Rice (instructed by Mr. C. J. McGahan), who appeared for the two trustees of the settlement, said that the first intimation that they received that they were trustees was when the writ was served on them in the present action. He asked the Court to declare them entitled to their costs. The Master of the Rolls said that he could only make an order on the plaintiff to pay them their costs.

ACTION AGAINST THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.—The hearing of the action of Rooney against the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction, which was instituted by Mrs. Frances Rooney and her son, Mr. Henry Rooney, for which she is trustee, for a declaration that they were entitled to compensation from the defendants by reason of their acquisition of the lands of the plaintiffs at Fassaugh lane and Grangegorman, Dublin, and the destruction of ancient pasture, was resumed yesterday before Mr. Justice Powell in the Chancery Division. The lands, consisting of 14 acres, were taken by the defendants under the Defence of the Realm Regulations, and handed over to the Land Cultivation Committee of the Dublin Corporation for distribution amongst plotholders for the production of food. They are situated adjacent to the Dublin cattle markets, and were let as lairages. They were entered upon occupied, and used as allotments since March 1918. Mrs. Rooney sought an injunction to prevent the defendants going on the lands, and the Court of Appeal held that defendants had the power to acquire. The question at issue in the present case was to whether having entered upon the lands the defendants were bound to pay compensation by reason of their use and occupation of the property. The plaintiffs stated that for the last lettings of the lands as lairages the rent agreed upon was £162. The defendants pleaded that there was no question of ultra vires with regard to the Order or their action under it. They contended that the present action was unsustainable. Their entry upon the land was justifiable in the circumstances, and was authorised by Act of Parliament, and the regulations declared by Parliament, and the Order made was sufficient to justify their entry and their continuance there so long as the necessity existed. They denied liability for compensation, or that they were accountable for the expenses necessary to restore the lands to their previous condition as ancient pasture. Messrs. W. M. Jellett, K.C.; T. M. Healy, K.C., and E. J. Kelly, M.P. (instructed by Messrs. Rooney and Co.) appeared for the plaintiffs; Serjeant Matheson, Mr. De Renzy, K.C., and Mr. Ryland (instructed by the Chief Crown Solicitor) for the defendants. Mr. Jellett during the course of the arguments proposed to read a document issued by the Plotholders' Union, which Mr. Healy described as "A Call to Arms." Serjeant Matheson said that that could not be made evidence against the defendants. It was got up by people who called an Allotment Conference. It was a document intended for the newspapers. Mr. Justice Powell said that he would allow the document to be read, taking Serjeant Matheson's objection. "But," he added, "does any one care about what appears in the newspapers?" Mr. Healy—I used to, but I have gone beyond that stage now. (Laughter.) Mr. Jellet—We have all got beyond it. Serjeant Matheson—I don't know about the Department for which I am appearing, and I don't think a document ought be received for which they are not responsible. Mr. Jellett read the document, which was issued by the Plotholders' Union, and stated effective steps must be taken at once to show that the plotholders were determined to retain possession of the plots by attending a conference on Sunday, March 30th, at the Theatre Royal. The document showed that the plaintiffs were confronted not only with material and pecuniary injury, but with an organised conspiracy to deprive them of their land altogether. Mr. Justice Powell said that the plaintiffs might be injured by that, but the question was, were the defendants responsible for it. Serjeant Matheson continued the arguments on behalf of the Department of Agriculture.

LAW REPORTS.

DUNDALK MARRIAGE SETTLEMENT.—In the Chancery Division yesterday, before the Master of the Rolls, a case of Wynne v. Wynne was heard. The action was brought by James Wynne, builder and contractor, Dundalk, against his wife, Rosa Mary Wynne, to have set aside a marriage settlement executed on the occasion of their marriage in December, 1916. It appeared that by the deed the plaintiff settled 24 houses in Dundalk in trust for himself for life, and after his death in trust for his wife absolutely, and he sought to set it aside on the ground that he never intended to give his wife an absolute estate in the property in case she should survive him. The defendant contended that the deed, as executed, carried out the true agreement come to between them. The writ in the action was served about a year ago, and as the plaintiff had since taken no step to bring the case to trial, it now came before the Court on the defendant's notice of motion for judgment, and to have the action dismissed. There was no appearance on behalf of the plaintiff. Mr. T. M. Healy, K.C., with whom were Mr. John Muldoon, K.C., and Mr. Joseph O'Connor (instructed by Mr. John M. McDowell) on behalf of the defendant, Mrs. Wynne, called the attention of the Court to the delay that had taken place and the circumstances under which the case came before the Court. He said that the wife adopted this course as an absolute necessity. Her husband deserted her because she refused to have the deed modified. He was away from her, and had refused even to pay for her necessaries. The defendant asked that the action should be dismissed so that she might make title to the houses and have them put up for auction so far as her interest in them was concerned, in order that she might have some maintenance. The Master of the Rolls dismissed the action with costs. Mr. Vincent Rice (instructed by Mr. C. J. McGahan), who appeared for the two trustees of the settlement, said that the first intimation that they received that they were trustees was when the writ was served on them in the present action. He asked the Court to declare them entitled to their costs. The Master of the Rolls said that he could only make an order on the plaintiff to pay them their costs.

ACTION AGAINST THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.—The hearing of the action of Rooney against the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction, which was instituted by Mrs. Frances Rooney and her son, Mr. Henry Rooney, for which she is trustee, for a declaration that they were entitled to compensation from the defendants by reason of their acquisition of the lands of the plaintiffs at Fassaugh lane and Grangegorman, Dublin, and the destruction of ancient pasture, was resumed yesterday before Mr. Justice Powell in the Chancery Division. The lands, consisting of 14 acres, were taken by the defendants under the Defence of the Realm Regulations, and handed over to the Land Cultivation Committee of the Dublin Corporation for distribution amongst plotholders for the production of food. They are situated adjacent to the Dublin cattle markets, and were let as lairages. They were entered upon, occupied, and used as allotments since March 1918. Mrs. Rooney sought an injunction to prevent the defendants going on the lands, and the Court of Appeal held that defendants had the power to acquire. The question at issue in the present case was to whether having entered upon the lands the defendants were bound to pay compensation by reason of their use and occupation of the property. The plaintiffs stated that for the last lettings of the lands as lairages the rent agreed upon was £162. The defendants pleaded that there was no question of ultra vires, with regard to the Order or their action under it. They contended that the present action was unsustainable. Their entry upon the land was justifiable in the circumstances, and was authorised by Act of Parliament, and the regulations declared by Parliament, and the Order made was sufficient to justify their entry and their continuance there so long as the necessity existed. They denied liability for compensation, or that they were accountable for the expenses necessary to restore the lands to their previous condition as ancient pasture. Messrs. W. M. Jellett, K.C.; T. M. Healy, K.C., and E. J. Kelly, M.P. (instructed by Messrs. Rooney and Co.) appeared for the plaintiffs; Serjeant Matheson, Mr. De Renzy, K.C., and Mr. Ryland (instructed by the Chief Crown Solicitor) for the defendants. Mr. Jellett during the course of the arguments proposed to read a document issued by the Plotholders' Union, which Mr. Healy described as "A Call to Arms." Serjeant Matheson said that that could not be made evidence against the defendants. It was got up by people who called an Allotment Conference. It was a document intended for the newspapers. Mr. Justice Powell said that he would allow the document to be read, taking Serjeant Matheson's objection. "But," he added, "does any one care about what appears in the newspapers?" Mr. Healy—I used to, but I have gone beyond that stage now. (Laughter.) Mr. Jellett—We have all got beyond it. Serjeant Matheson—I don't know about the Department for which I am appearing, and I don't think a document ought be received for which they are not responsible. Mr. Jellett read the document, which was issued by the Plotholders' Union, and stated effective steps must be taken at once to show that the plotholders were determined to retain possession of the plots by attending a conference on Sunday, March 30th, at the Theatre Royal. The document showed that the plaintiffs were confronted not only with material and pecuniary injury, but with an organised conspiracy to deprive them of their land altogether. Mr. Justice Powell said that the plaintiffs might be injured by that, but the question was, were the defendants responsible for it. Serjeant Matheson continued the arguments on behalf of the Department of Agriculture.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

In spite of a mistake—possibly intentional—of the authorities, who stated that Marshal Foch would arrive at Charing Cross, there was an enormous crowd to greet him at Victoria this morning. In fact, there is no part of the West End just now where a permanent crowd is not present. The Marshal was met by his fellow Commander-in-Chief, Sir D. Haig, by Sir Henry Wilson, the Chief of the Imperial General Staff, and many other distinguished soldiers and officials. The Welsh Guards mounted the guard of honour, and the band of the Irish Guards played the "Marseillaise."

There was tremendous cheering as the Marshal and Sir D. Haig drove away together in one of the Royal carriages sent specially from Buckingham Palace. The cheers were intended for both of them, but it was noticeable that the British Commander, with his customary modesty, left the acknowledgment to the great Frenchman. This was the more appropriate, since to-day is the anniversary of the opening of the great counter-attack on July 18th, planned by Foch, and executed by Mangin, which was the precursor of the German débâcle.

In more than one respect the French Commander-in-Chief bears a strong resemblance to the Duke of Wellington, who, 100 years ago, was the military arbiter of Europe, as Foch is to-day, and, curiously enough, the likeness extends to a little trick of speech. The poilus' nickname for Foch is "General Twopenny," from his habit of saying "I don't care twopence" when things are not going quite smoothly, and the great Duke's favourite expletive was "I don't care a twopenny dam"—the dam being a coin of little value, current in India at the time.

A multitude of regimental flags will be borne in the procession to-morrow. I happened to see the Colour parties of the Guards marching over Westminster Bridge yesterday, and, though the Colours were furled, they looked in the distance like Birnam Wood advancing to Dunsinane, except that the staves were crowned, not with green leaves, but with brass tops glittering bravely in the sunshine.

Two of the flags that will be seen to-morrow have a special interest. One is the flag that was carried by the tanks in the famous attack on Cambrai on November 17th, and the other is the first British flag taken across the Rhine just a year later.

The West End of London to-day was one mass of people mixed up with an unusual amount of vehicular traffic. It seemed, from the scraps of conversation overheard, that most of the people had come up to see all they could to-day, because they were afraid of venturing into the crowds to-morrow. In the Mall thousands of people moved along slowly, taking stock of all the preparations, and admiring everything. Numbers of foreign soldiers were to be seen everywhere, most responsive to the kindly greetings shouted at them from all quarters.

Two 'bus loads of French officers drove through the streets this afternoon, and were received with great enthusiasm. Every officer seemed to be provided with something to wave, and they were cheering vociferously. It was interesting to note how every passing omnibus stirred to enthusiasm and a wild response as they passed. All the passengers stood up and shouted, and waved back to the Frenchmen. Evidently the French mean to import a little spirit into our rather subdued rejoicings.

The cenotaph erected in Whitehall is quite a simple erection in stone-like material. About thirty feet high, it has a flat top. On this is laid a Union Jack, on which rests a great laurel wreath. On either side there is a simple group of Union Jacks and Service flags, and a large wreath of laurel in conventional design, bound with scarlet streamers. At the ends are the simple mottoes, "The Glorious Dead." Otherwise the erection is unrelieved by figure or design.

The Mall, where the procession culminates in the King's taking the salute, is certainly the finest sight in London just now. The decorations are magnificent and artistic. White pylons, surmounted by golden globes, line the route on either side. A beautifully arranged group of flags adorns the front of each pylon, while behind tall masts carry scarlet and white pennons falling from a standard of St. George. Here and there larger pylons unadorned bear a list of famous battle names. At the foot of the Victoria Memorial a solid-looking pavilion has been built for the Royal party. A platform projects right out to the road, while behind are six tiers of seats. This pavilion looks right down the Mall, and its occupants will have a magnificent view of the approaching procession.

The members of the Houses of Parliament, who are to be provided with seats in the Mall at their own expense, will not fare particularly well. The seats built up on munition boxes are not at all high, and they are several yards away from the road, with room for many rows of people between. The Parliamentarians, therefore, will only have a view over the heads of the crowd. They would have done better to have had seats put up in Palace Yard.

A White Paper, issued to-day, gives details of some supplementary estimates for the Civil Service. A sum of £451,280 is required for public education in Ireland to defray mainly the additional war bonus to the teachers of the National schools. An additional sum of £9,500,000 is required for the out-of-work donation. This makes a sum of no less than £34,500,000 for this donation, and the increase is due to the extension of the donation period. An additional £60,000,000 is required for loans to the Allies, making a sum of £110,000,000 for the year.

The House went through a diversified programme this afternoon, but most of the discussion centred on the Home Secretary's Police Bill for improving the conditions of service of the police in accordance with the recommendations of Lord Desborough's Committee. The Labour members were up in arms against what they described as an attempt by law to suppress trade unions, but the Home Secretary disavowed any such intention, and, though the rejection of the Bill was moved by Mr. Sexton, the second reading was agreed to without a division.

Immediately on the return of the Prime Minister to London this evening a meeting of the Cabinet was to be held to consider the situation caused by the refusal of the Government offer by the miners. Mr. Lloyd George is expected to make another great speech on Monday, when the Bill ratifying the Peace Treaty comes up for discussion. There is some doubt whether the Government will be able to carry out their intention of getting the Bill through all its remaining stages on that day, and the Prime Minister will, no doubt, make a strong appeal to the House to pass it without delay.

GENERAL SMUTS'S DEPARTURE.

General Smuts left Waterloo, London, yesterday for Southampton, en route for Cape Town.

LORD DERBY'S HEALTH.

The Press Association is informed that an operation was performed on Lord Derby yesterday morning, supplementary to that performed in Paris [illegible].

MR. WYLIE, K.C., CONGRATULATED.

When Mr. Wylie, K.C., appeared as counsel yesterday in a case in the Bankruptcy Court Mr. Justice Powell congratulated him upon his appointment as Law Adviser to the Irish Government. Mr. Wylie acknowledged the compliment.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

THE PEACE CELEBRATIONS.

Referring to the peace celebrations to-day, The Times says:—This immense national and international festival of union and of peace bids us lift up our hearts. The task before us and before our Allies and Associates will be longer than the war, and not less exacting, but the virtues which have won the peace can achieve its preservation, and can attain its final goal. The victory has been a victory of ideals, and the peace rests upon ideals and upon our fidelity to them. Many sacrifices must be made, much dull spade work must be done, old traditions and habits of thought must be modified and adjusted, strong prejudices must be foregone, and all these things must be accomplished in cold blood without the stimulus of instant danger, without the conscious thrill of war. To rise to this civic devotion is the task before us, and before all the Allies and Associates who take part in our rejoicings to-day. The knowledge that it confronts us does not lessen our joy. It calms us with thoughts of the duty cast upon us; it bids us dedicate ourselves anew to the work which victory has made possible, but which only peace can bring to its glorious consummation.

BERLIN SHOCKED AT MARSHAL FOCH'S PENALTY.

The news of the heavy penalty imposed by Marshal Foch on the city, in consequence of the murder of Sergeant Mannheim, came as a considerable shock to Berlin, declares The Times Special Correspondent in Berlin. The authorities are very reserved in their utterances upon this incident, but what they say amounts to this—that the attitude of the Berlin magistracy will depend upon whether the inquiries of the Criminal Investigation Department result in proof that the blame lies with the Berlin population. The Cabinet consulted this afternoon on the reply to be sent to the Entente. It is said that the Government will take the standpoint that the authorities are investigating the matter with all possible speed, and will also declare itself prepared to pay a sum of money to the widow; but that it will urge that a fine of such magnitude as it is proposed is not called for.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT IN DIFFICULTIES.

The Times Special Correspondent in Berlin says—The school compromise between the Social Democrats and the Centre Party continues to create much bad blood. The Prussian Minister of Public Worship and Education, Herr Hanisch, who is regarded as one of the most moderate of the Social Democrats, now states that he will resign if the compromise is not abandoned. This compromise provides that in the provinces in Prussia where Catholics are in a majority religious education shall be obligatory, and that religious bodies shall have the right to establish denominational schools whenever they can. The result will be that a great struggle for the schools will take place in the near future between the religious bodies and the Social Democrats, who disapprove of religious education. Herr Hanisch has a solid backing of Social Democrats in Parliament, so that a grave crisis is impending.

GERMAN EMIGRATION.

The unfavourable economic situation of Germany is causing large sections of the people to examine more closely the question of emigration, says The Times Special Correspondent in Berlin. I hear that the authorities, especially the Government Emigration Office, are now considering how best to organise the emigrants in a systematic fashion, so that the movement may have as much unity as possible. The main stream of emigration tends towards Argentina, where, with the help of the Argentine Government, instructional farms will be established, on which the emigrants will pass one or two years without receiving remuneration. Many ex-officers have applied to the Argentine Consul-General in Berlin for information as to conditions.

M.P.'S AND SIR EDWARD CARSON'S SPEECH.

Major P. Lloyd Greame, M.C., Coalition Unionist member for Hendon, writes to The Times criticising the debate in the House of Lords on Wednesday on Sir Edward Carson's July 12th speech. To many of us, he says, Sir Edward Carson's speech, whatever its precise legal significance, was a moral and political offence. It appears to be the speech of one who has learned nothing and forgotten nothing in the war and in the councils of peace, and to be equally hopeless, equally disastrous in its bearing upon both English and Irish affairs. Even were Ireland a purely domestic question, the obligation upon us is sufficiently urgent, but it is much more. I believe that moderate men of all parties are looking to the Government for a lead, for a declaration that the Government intend to face the Irish question in the same spirit in which they have faced the problems of the Peace Conference, and in which we look to them to face their domestic problems.

An "Irish Soldier," writing on the same subject, declares:—The situation is so fraught with danger to the Empire that I venture to suggest for your consideration whether the time is not now ripe for the great political party which has hitherto countenanced, and even actively supported, Sir Edward Carson's attitude to revise its position now, and withdraw its countenance of extreme courses, and even urge those in North-East Ulster whom it may still influence to reconsider their opposition to Irish self-government, in view of the Imperial interests involved, in coming to an understanding with the majority of the inhabitants of Ireland.

DEARER COAL.

Referring to the failure to compromise the deadlock with the coal miners, The Times Labour Correspondent says:—Crippling though the new charge on domestic life, industry, and commerce may be, it will probably be the general feeling that the Government do better to impose it than to submit to the dictation, not of the proletariat, but of the Miners' Federation. At the same time, the fact must not be overlooked that the miners in their striving after nationalisation have the ardent support of all the fomenters of disaffection in all the trades, and notably of the extremists who lead the railwaymen and the transport workers. Further, they have the approval, perhaps a little lukewarm, of the organised Labour movement, as a whole. No effort is likely to be spared to persuade workmen everywhere that the denial of nationalisation and the imposition of the 6s. increase is a direct challenge to Labour, and that the workers must meet it by direct action. Thus the storms which were certain to come, soon or late, on the nationalisation question may quite conceivably be aroused by the failure of the miners and Ministers to reach an agreement on the price question. This remains to be seen.

IN PRAISE OF BOXING.

In a leading article in praise of boxing, The Times remarks—A man's last line of defence is his fists. There is no sport, not even cricket, which is more essentially English than boxing. In the days of Rodney Stone—and there is no English schoolboy who does not know his story—boxing was the greatest of English pastimes. It is the same to-day. Wilde is a national hero because he has shown that in the great sport which was ours, and now is the property of the whole world, we can still produce a champion when it comes to a fight. That the popularity of boxing was increased enormously by the war may be accounted as a war benefit. There is no sport in the world which demands cleaner living. There is no more natural sport. Low cunning will not help him, but a quick, clear brain, a hard body, and perfect training will carry a man a long way. Weight is not everything, as the incomparable Wilde showed at Olympia when he gave Moore, his plucky opponent, nearly a stone in weight, and gained a victory which will live as long as the great victories of Tom Cribb, Mendoza, and the mighty Belcher.

PEACE CELEBRATIONS AT CAIRO.

A Cairo telegram says:—The Peace celebrations held in Cairo during the week-end have been remarkable for the united enthusiasm of all nationals, including Egyptians.

WANDERINGS IN ITALY.

IN THE TRENTINO.

THE WONDERS OF MONTE GRAPPA.

ITALY'S GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

TRENT, JULY 14.

I sit at the open window of a little inn in the ancient town of Trent, or Trient, as you will find it called on many of the maps, and look out at the scenery. As it happens, the window faces north-west; but that matters little, for on every side the view is similar. From the outskirts of the town the mountains rise precipitately on every side, so that one wonders by what tortuous ways the River Adige, which flows along one side of the city, gets into the place at all. The weather is mercilessly hot, and one is reduced to a languid limpness, but on the mountain summits the snow still glistens, and, from time to time during the day, one's view of the tops is obscured by a floating veil of mist, which wraps itself round the mountain till the new breeze carries it farther. The town itself is quaint, picturesque, interesting, but dirty. The smell of something unrecognisable, but distinctly disagreeable, constantly strikes one. The population seem to spend the day in idle dreaming. Time, in fact, has ceased to count, as it did, but so recently, in the whirl of Paris and the Conference.

Trent is typical of so much in northern Italy, and recent history gives it a special interest. To recall its chief claim to fame, it is the place where the Council of Trent sat over its deliberations for forty years, settling knotty problems of religious faith. The Paris Conference might later have reason to envy the way much of its work has stood the test of time. The church in which the conclave sat is still to be seen in excellent preservation. The front was destroyed by fire about 1800, and was restored in new style, but the body of the building, with its rich paintings, its matchless marble carvings, and its famous chapels, has still its ancient charm. A picture of the Council at work is to be seen beneath the oriel, behind a carved wooden pulpit. One Pope after another had promised that such a Council should meet, but its appointment was postponed. At last, it was called, and sat in various places, among others at Bologna, but always with the result that its labours ended in conflict. Finally Trent was chosen as being neutral territory, for it has always claimed to be a free town, owning no authority but that of its own bishop-prince and framing its own laws.

UNDER AUSTRIAN SWAY.

It paid for its independent spirit by passing at last under the control of Austria, and remaining part of that empire; but so little did it share sympathy with things Austrian that the most diligent search will reveal nothing to suggest any former connection with the Hapsburg monarchy, except a few carved figures of Austrian bishops in the Cathedral. One sees no signboards in German, one tries in vain to find a person who understands German. Yet, under Austrian rule, German schools were forced upon the people, and relics of Austrian sovereignty still remain in the shape of a few coins with the Hapsburg eagle. But that is so typical of much which the present war has corrected. This little town, so thoroughly Italian in spirit and history, so important as a corner stone in the defence of Italy against encroachment from the north, has been virtually under foreign rule for over a century. True to its independent spirit, which kept it from joining the Italian confederation, it refused to be Germanised. The people call themselves Trentians by nationality, but it is with a spirit of rejoicing that they now acknowledge Italy, in preference to Austria, as their legal head.

Not only is the town typical of wrongs righted by the Allied victory; the country in which it is situated is highly characteristic of that over which Italian troops had to fight. In estimating Italy's contribution to the Allied success, it must be remembered that she fought over territory not like that of France, where the plains roll for miles with but slight undulations. Northern Italy is a mass of mountain chains, so precipitous, so high, so barren that one wonders at the hardihood of going over the country in times of peace, and can with difficulty believe that it could be the site of battlefields.

A PERILOUS DRIVE.

Yesterday I was at Monte Grappa, three hours' journey by motor car from Padua. At this place some of the severest fighting took place. Down on the plain the fierce Italian summer sun burnt one's skin brown. At the mountain top the snow was still lying in parts, and one was chilled by the cold dampness of the atmosphere. The road to the top was built during the war. It is as solid as a rock for all the heavy traffic which has passed over it. The gradient at times is as much as 30 degrees, and the path twists and winds up the mountain side like a snake in contortions. That the powerful "Lancia" car went up this road at all is a tribute to modern engineering, and to the inimitable skill of the Italian driver; but it went up, up, up without a hitch, turning every twist with a wonderful dexterity. The side of the mountain dropped sheer away for hundreds, later thousands, of feet. Had the car skidded it must have slid over into space as unceremoniously as a box of matches, and its occupants have been dashed to unrecognisable pieces. But the driver never seemed conscious of any difficulty or hesitation. Once the front outer wheel crumbled a piece of stone from the edge of the path and sent it bounding from rock to rock into space, but the car just drew back and went its way.

Far below one could see the other cars, looking in the distance like tiny ants, clinging to the roadway. Here and there one crossed dry watercourses, which marked the path of the mountain torrents during the melting of the spring snows. But not one drop of water was anywhere to be seen. At times a winding sheet of mountain mist closed across the path and obscured all view of the surroundings, but it passed again without condensing, and left no moisture behind. Finally, one reached the top of the Monte Grappa. The journey as described had been made in ideal weather, under peace conditions, on a perfect road, in the best of machines. Under war conditions the road construction was but going on. The mountain was heavily bombarded. In parts the ground is full of shell holes big enough to hide a horse. Often the weather was wet, and for a good part of the year snow lay thick and sodden over the land, so that the difficulties and cost of transit were enormous. Yet in this country the fighting was so severe that one spot, commanded by the summit of the Monte Grappa, was lost and retaken eleven times in one day, eventually to be held by the Italians. The dead numbered 4,000, the wounded 25,000. It was a feat of endurance hardly credible.

WONDERFUL ENGINEERS.

And here one must pay a tribute to the marvels of Italian engineering. The roads up the mountain side are perfection itself, recalling the fine work of their ancestors, the Romans. They are solid as rock, and even after all the war wear, show no signs of use. At the top of the Monte Grappa is a rabbit warren of tunnelling. In all there are five miles of it, much cut out of solid rock; chambers open out at various points, and the whole was lit with electric light, and provided with the comforts to lessen the severity of the campaign. In this burrow officers and men hid, to relieve their comrades in turn. But the splendid feature is that it was all done during the severe fighting. As mentioned above, no drop of water is found on the mountain. The whole had to be pumped up, and that meant laying lines of water piping. Stores had also to be sent up, ammunition carried, wounded transported, heavy guns and rifles put into position. Everywhere one sees traces of the devices used. Besides the motor transport, lines of cable were erected, and baskets slid along by pulleys did much of the carriage, but the gradient is so steep that many means had to be employed to keep the rate of descent within control. At the mountain top itself, there was only room enough to store food for fifteen days in the tunnels, so that at all cost communications had to be maintained. Finally, the question of trenches had to be tackled. The solid rock in many places did not admit of any digging. It was then a case of building barricades of sand bags, all of which had to be raised to the mountain top. One can form some idea of the nature of this task.

Had this line of defence broken down, all Italy would have been overrun, and Germany would have had access to the Mediterranean. This line remained intact, not alone on account of the heroism and endurance of the Italian Army, but equally so on account of their magnificent engineering. If one judges military achievement by the space captured on the map, one gets a very false idea of the facts. In the face of such obstacles one cannot pay too high a tribute to the work of the defenders; it was characteristic of their fighting all along the line.

PROPOSED MONUMENT TO JUDAS ISCARIOT.

Reuter's Stockholm correspondent writes:—A message received here from Petrograd says—The Soviet of the town of Tambof have decided to erect a monument to Judas Iscariot, probably in order to show that they are free from prejudices.

THE MARQUIS OF LONDONDERRY.

The Marquis of Londonderry is laid up with a severe chill, and has cancelled all his engagements.

THE DUBLIN VICTORY MARCH.

TO-DAY'S GREAT EVENT.

SALUTE AT 11.30 A.M.

To-day's Victory March will be one of the most impressive sights witnessed in the City of Dublin for many years, and it is safe to predict that as the troops march down Dame street to College Green they will be accorded a rousing reception.

A troop of mounted police will head the procession. Then, following the pipers' band of the Irish Guards, which is coming over from Windsor specially to take part in the celebrations, will be the demobilised Irish sailors and soldiers, marshalled according to their various regiments, and led by their own officers. Next will come the Officer Commanding and his Staff, and following them units representative of the different Services, including the Cavalry, Artillery, Royal Air Force, W.R.A.F., W.A.A.C., Red Cross, and V.A.D., and in the rear an imposing display of tanks and armoured cars. Massed bands will be assembled in College Green, and will play the march past.

The arrangements for the procession are now completed. The demobilised men are to assemble at the Lower Castle Yard between 9.30 and 10.30 a.m., and will be paraded immediately, the senior demobilised officer of each regiment being placed in command of the men who have served in that regiment. The route to be followed by the ex-Service men, as many as possible of whom are to wear khaki, will be—Dame street, College street, Brunswick street, Westland row, Lincoln place, Leinster street, and Kildare street, to St. Stephen's Green. Units will break off when the disperse is sounded, probably about 1 o'clock.

TRAFFIC REGULATIONS.

The troops from the different barracks in the city will march to Dame street by specified routes which have been prescribed by the military authorities, and Colonel W. Edgeworth Johnstone, C.B., Chief Commissioner, Dublin Metropolitan Police, has issued an order prohibiting all vehicular traffic along these routes from 10.30 a.m., for such time as may be necessary to secure the uninterrupted progress of the military through the streets. At various points along the lines constables will be stationed to see that the order is obeyed. The routes are as follow:—Troops from the Phœnix Park, Marlborough Barracks, and Royal Barracks will march via the Southern quays, Parliament street, and Dame street, and after passing the saluting base in College Green will return by Westmoreland street, O'Connell Bridge, and the Northern quays. Troops from Richmond Barracks will march via Emmet road, James's street, Thomas street, Christchurch place, and Lord Edward street to Dame street. Troops from Wellington Barracks will march via Clanbrassil street, Patrick street, and Christchurch place to Dame street. Troops from Portobello Barracks will march via Richmond street, Camden street, Aungier street, and South Great George's street to Dame street. In Dame street these troops will be given the places allotted to them in the procession, and after the march past, the troops from Richmond, Wellington, and Portobello Barracks will return to their respective barracks via College street, Great Brunswick street, Westland Row, Lincoln place, Leinster street, Kildare street, Stephen's Green, North and West; and Harcourt street.

The notice also contained the information that motor cars coming to the Viceregal enclosure at the Bank of Ireland will be accommodated at Foster place. Copies of this order were posted up on hoardings and dead walls throughout the city yesterday, and attracted no small amount of attention from passers-by, small crowds collecting at each place to read the terms.

AT COLLEGE GREEN.

The chief point of interest will be College Green, where Lord French is to take the salute at 11.30. Inside the railings of the Bank of Ireland the stand for the Viceregal party was erected yesterday, while two stands have been put up inside the enclosure in front of Trinity College for wounded soldiers. From these vantage points they will have an admirable opportunity of witnessing the magnificent spectacle of the column advancing down Dame street and passing Lord French. It is expected that large crowds will be assembled at this point from an early hour in the morning in order to have the privilege of witnessing what may be the most memorable scene of their lives.

DISPLAY OF FLAGS.

By Royal Proclamation to-day is a Bank holiday, and in addition to the banks being closed the majority of the business houses in the city will also observe the day. In this respect the mercantile community are showing a splendid example of patriotism. In the principal thoroughfares of the city a most effective display was made yesterday of flags, "arches," and other patriotic emblems. These included the flags of all the nations allied against the Central Powers in the war, but the Union Jack naturally predominated. These emblems are more numerous in Grafton street, Dame street, Westmoreland street, and Sackville street—where the Union Jack, Stars and Stripes, and the Italian flag float from the ruined walls of the General Post Office—than in other portions of the city, but there is no street or locality which does not show some evidence of rejoicing at the termination of the war in victory for the British and Allied arms. The deeds of the Navy are not forgotten, and here and there the White Ensign floats in the breeze, while in other places the Red Ensign testifies to the loyalty and devotion of the men of the Mercantile Marine who carried out their work with a courage which earned for them a proud place in the esteem of the nation.

TRAIN AND TRAM ARRANGEMENTS.

The Irish railway companies are celebrating the day by running only passenger trains, and transacting no goods or live stock business. On the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway a number of passenger trains will not run.

The Dublin Tramways Company announce that their services will be as usual, but on most of the lines no cars can run from 10.30 until such time as the military have left the streets free again for ordinary vehicular traffic.

ON THE COAST.

Evidences of the public rejoicing were everywhere beginning to be shown in the coast Townships yesterday. Flags of all nations, and especially the Union Jack, floated yesterday from many windows and house-tops, while masts, as yet bare, showed promise of a more generous display on the morrow.

NAVAL ILLUMINATIONS AT KINGSTOWN.

We have been notified by the Senior Naval Officer, Kingstown, that the Naval Commander-in-Chief on the Coast of Ireland, Sir Reginald G. O. Tupper, K.C.B., C.V.O., has ordered His Majesty's ships Parker and Umpire, now anchored in Kingstown Harbour, to "illuminate ship" at 10 p.m. (British summer time) this evening, on the occasion of the Peace celebrations. A firework display will commence at 11 p.m. (British summer time) and, in view of the fact that this will be the first naval firework display held at Kingstown for many years, it is hoped that the public will find the programme interesting and enjoyable.

DUBLIN CORPORATION AND THE PEACE DAY.

The following is the full text of the letters sent by the Irish General Headquarters to the Lord Mayor of Dublin (an incomplete account of which appeared in the Irish Times of yesterday), in connection with to-day's Peace demonstration:—

General Headquarters, Dublin,
10th July, 1919.

DEAR SIR,—I am directed to inform you that His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant has approved of a march through the city, of Dublin Garrison, on the 19th July.

Further communication as regards details will be made.—I have the honour to be, sir, your obedient servant,

(Signed), J. J. READY,
Major-General i/c Administration,
G.H.Q., Ireland.

The Right Honourable
The Lord Mayor of Dublin,
Mansion House, Dublin.

General Headquarters, Dublin,
12th July, 1919.

DEAR SIR,—In continuation of my letter of 10th July, His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant will review the Dublin Garrison on Saturday, the 19th instant, at 11.30 a.m., from a position inside the Bank of Ireland enclosure, facing College Green.

I am to request to be informed whether the Corporation of the City wish to be represented, and, if so, what arrangements they propose to make.

I am also to inquire whether you propose to take any steps to show hospitality to the discharged soldiers, as has been done in other towns, and I should be glad to be favoured with an early reply.—I have the honour to be, sir, your obedient servant,

(Signed), J. J. READY,
Major-General i/c Administration,
G.H.Q., Ireland.

The Right Honourable
The Lord Mayor of Dublin,
Mansion House, Dublin.

THE LORD MAYOR'S ATTITUDE.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin, we are informed, replied to Major-General Ready on the 17th inst., stating that, having regard to the shortness of notice, and to the fact that it would be impossible to have a special meeting summoned to consider the matter, he could not act without a definite resolution from his Council. He had, however, notified all the members of the Council of the contents of Major-General Ready's letter.

ENGLISH RAILWAY STRIKE.

MOVEMENT SPREADING.

THE MEN DEFIANT.

TRAFFIC SERIOUSLY AFFECTED.

A Newcastle correspondent says that the position on the Tyneside, owing to the North-Eastern Railway men's strike, is becoming increasingly serious. The goods traffic has ceased entirely, and local industries and food supplies are gravely affected. Tons of perishable goods are rotting in the sidings. Passenger service is virtually nil, and the Newcastle Central Station was closed on Thursday night. The men's strike Committee have refused to meet the Executive of the National Union of Railway men, and has replied to the invitation, to the effect that, should the Executive Committee define any policy without consulting the Strike Committee, the Executive Committee must be held fully responsible for any untoward consequences.

At a mass meeting of the North-Eastern railway men on strike, held yesterday at Newcastle, the following resolution was carried:—

"That this meeting re-affirms its determination to contest the present issue of the eyesight test, and expresses complete confidence in the Strike Committee as the only accredited representative appointed to negotiate on their behalf. We condemn the Executive Committee of the National Union of Railwaymen for their untimely interference, in meddling with the matter without any consultation with the Strike Committee or the men concerned."

There is no prospect of improvement in the situation. Few trains left Newcastle yesterday morning, and it is stated that many collieries had to close owing to the absence of empty wagons.

The speakers at yesterday afternoon's meeting expressed determination to continue the strike in the confidence of the Union Executive, and resolutions in support of this attitude were received from numerous branches.

Sunderland telegraphed:—"We have condemned the action of the National Union of Railwaymen's Executive Committee, but it has strengthened our cause instead of weakening it, as the men seem more determined than ever. Have no fear of the Sunderland branches."

Similar messages were received from Leeds, Alnmouth, and elsewhere.

A delegate from Carlisle, where the strike originated, said that it was a fight for principle, rather than for reinstatement of the men suspended. They were "out" to smash, once and for all, the outrageous and abominable system of the eyesight test on the North-Eastern Railway and York Railway. The delegate declared that in that business they had no unions and no executives. No instructions from the Executive would be acted on unless ratified by the Strike Committee. It was for the young men who had good vision to take a definite stand for a practical test.

DARLINGTON.

At a crowded meeting yesterday at Darlington, the railwaymen unanimously resolved that all men in the running department who are members of the National Union of Railwaymen and Associates of the Society of Engine Drivers, Firemen, and Cleaners, should cease work in support of the Newcastle men. The men came out at noon.

The locomotive enginemen and firemen employed at Leeds, on the North-Eastern Railway, on Thursday night decided, by a large majority, to strike in sympathy with the men at York.

At a mass meeting at York on Thursday night a telegram was read from Newcastle stating that a full inquiry was being made into the cause of the strike, in the hope that an early settlement would be reached. The meeting resolved to support the resolution carried the previous evening.

Another meeting of the North-Eastern shopmen, who were not bound by the resolution of Wednesday night, after a prolonged sitting resolved upon an immediate strike until a satisfactory settlement was reached.

The North-Eastern strikers, says another message, continue to flout the national leaders, who have ordered them to remain at work pending negotiations. The situation grows increasingly serious, the strike now involving practically the whole of the North-Eastern system. The men are all out at Newcastle, York, and Leeds, and at Darlington the stoppage is general with the exception of the western branch of the line. Yesterday's messages describe the position on the Tyneside as alarming.

NEGOTIATIONS AT BOARD OF TRADE.

The parties deliberating with Sir Auckland Geddes at the Board of Trade separated at 1 a.m. No communication was made to the Press, but it was stated that negotiations would be resumed at Newcastle to-day.

IN THE PROVINCES.

The Peace celebrations in Tipperary Town will be virtually confined to the military barracks, and, with the exception of the closing of the bank and the Post Office business is expected to be transacted as usual.

To prevent their being used in the Peace celebration in Strabane, the instruments of the local brass and reed band have been seized and carried off.

A general holiday will be observed in Enniskillen to-day. All the soldiers and ex-soldiers and children will be entertained. There will be a march past of ex-Service men. Sports have been organised, and the town has been fittingly decorated for the occasion.

At a meeting of the Mullingar Guardians yesterday, the Local Government Board's circular, suggesting special arrangements for the Peace celebration, was thrown in the waste-paper basket.

KING'S MESSAGE TO COUNTY LIEUTENANTS.

The King has addressed the following message "to His Majesty's Lieutenants of Counties taking part in the Peace celebrations throughout the country":—

"I desire you to express my admiration of the courage and endurance displayed by sailors, soldiers, and airmen of your county during the past five years of war. I am grateful to all the brave men and women of the country for their devoted and patriotic service. I once more express my sympathy, and that of the Queen, with the relatives of the gallant men who have given their lives in their country's cause, and our earnest hope that the sick and wounded may be restored to health. I rejoice with you to-day, at the restoration of peace, which, I trust, will bring to us all unity, contentment, and prosperity.

GEORGE, R.I.

MESSAGE TO THE SICK AND WOUNDED.

The King has also addressed a message to the sick and wounded in the naval and military hospitals.

"To these," the King says, "I send our greetings, and bid them good cheer, assuring them that the wounds and scars so honourable to themselves, inspire in the hearts of their fellow-countrymen the warmest feelings of gratitude and respect."

The King will entertain at luncheon, at Buckingham Palace to-day, at the conclusion of the Victory March, the commanding officers of the detachments of the Allied Forces, together with the heads of our own Naval, Military, and Air Forces, the Prime Minister, the First Lord of the Admiralty, and the Secretary of State for War.

PRINCE OF WALES AND THE AMERICAN SOLDIERS.

The Prince of Wales went yesterday morning to the parade ground in Hyde Park, to witness the march past of nearly 3,000 American officers and men who recently arrived from France for to-day's Victory March. He was joined by General Pershing and other officers at the saluting base.

After the march past, the Prince addressed the officers, and congratulated them on the magnificent body of men. These, he said, are historic and unique days of rejoicing, and your British brothers-in-arms, your own kith and kin, are especially glad to have you with us just now, almost as glad as we and the French were to have you with us in the line during the great offensive last year. I want you to take back with you to the United States the feeling that your comradeship and aid have been very dear to the heart of the British Empire. We can never forget that British and American troops have fought shoulder to shoulder, and I feel certain that if we two great English-speaking nations stand together and work together in future, as we have worked in the past, we shall always be thankful, and the world will always be free.

While the Prince was chatting with Mr. Davis, American Ambassador, and Mr. Churchill, a young woman in mourning advanced, and, addressing the Prince, asked if he could do anything to secure for her a pension that she believed she was entitled to, as she was in urgent need of it. She handed to him documents bearing on the case, and, although he could promise nothing definite, the Prince answered that the matter should receive attention.

It is understood that Mr. Churchill, to whom His Royal Highness spoke about it, also promised investigation. The lady was much gratified by the kindly and sympathetic manner of the Prince, who shook hands in bidding her good morning.

Prior to the arrival of the Prince to witness the march past of the American troops, General Pershing distributed the American Distinguished Service Medals to forty-six officers of the British Army, five officers of the Royal Air Force, and four officers of the Australian Imperial Force.

NEW COAL PRICES.

GOVERNMENT'S DECISION.

SIX SHILLINGS INCREASE NEXT MONDAY.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Mr. Clynes asked the Leader of the House whether, in view of the fact that the Miners' Federation had not accepted the Government's offer, the addition to the price of coal would take effect on Monday.

Mr. Bonar Law—Yes, sir. I have now received official confirmation that the Miners' Federation has not accepted the offer of the Government, and in these circumstances the addition to the price of coal will, as stated in the recent debate, take effect on Monday next. I may add that I see from reports of the proceedings that the promise given on behalf of the miners' representatives in this House by Mr. Brace, that he would not only submit a proposal, but recommend its acceptance, has been amply fulfilled. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Clynes—In view of the conditions attaching to the decision of the Miners' Federation, and as between the position of the miners and that of the Government, is there not some further ground for negotiations, and the possibility of reaching a more satisfactory settlement?

Mr. Bonar Law—The Government never preclude an opportunity for negotiation, and will not now. But it does not alter the fact that in our view any delay in making the coal price equivalent to the cost would be fatal, and that cannot be permitted.

THE GOVERNMENT'S ATTITUDE.

FURTHER STATEMENT EXPECTED.

A further statement on the coal situation will be made on Monday in the House of Commons, probably by Mr. Bonar Law. The Government will, it is understood, be in a position to announce that active steps are being taken to deal with the contributory causes to the shortage of the coal output, of which complaint has been made.

An inquiry into the present organisation of the industry under the Coal Controller may also be indicated.

A special meeting of the Parliamentary Coal Committee has been summoned for Monday. The members of this body have been for some time pressing on the Government the need of adopting immediately all practicable measures for relieving the transport congestion. At recent private deputations it has been stated emphatically, on behalf of the Government, that, while prepared to carry out, as far as lies in their power, the recommendations of the first report of the Sankey Commission as to improvements and working, they refuse to be rushed into a policy of nationalisation. This attitude is understood to have been only strengthened by the events of the past few days.

MINERS' FEDERATION.

SURFACE MEN'S GRIEVANCES.

ADHERENCE TO SANKEY REPORT.

The Miners' Conference at Keswick proceeded yesterday to deal with a number of routine matters. One of the most important questions dealt with was that relating to the surface workers, raised by Mr. Hartshorn, M.P. They were all aware, he said, that in the Sankey award provision had been made for a reduction of hours for underground men and a certain reduction for surface men. The reduction for the surface men was less, at any rate so far as Wales was concerned, than for the underground men, and there was a very serious situation developing in the coal fields on account of the resentment which was being shown by the surface workers in relation to the very limited reduction which had taken place in their hours. There had been two ballot votes—the first gave a 500,000 majority for a strike; the second gave a 600,000 majority for the acceptance of the Sankey award.

Mr. Sutton (Lancashire) said that the Executive met Mr. Bonar Law and the Minister of Labour to see if they could not get the surface men's hours reduced from 46½ to a lower figure, and they were told by the Leader of the House that the Government was not prepared to negotiate at all on the Sankey award. He did not believe anybody was satisfied, but if they asked the Government to carry out its pledge, they on their part could not go in for breaking what they had decided to accept as a Federation.

Mr. Hodges moved the following resolution:—"This Conference learns with regret that certain surface workers have stopped work because of local disputes as to the hours of labour. This Conference call upon all surface workers loyally to observe the award of the interim report of Mr. Justice Sankey, in accordance with the decision of the ballot vote of the members."

The President announced that the resolution had been carried almost unanimously.

THE DAYLIGHT SAVING ACT.

Some amusing arguments were put forward in support of a resolution asking the Federation to take steps to secure the abolition of the Daylight Saving Act.

Mr. Booth (Forest of Dean), who moved it, said that it was impossible for the men on the day shift to get their proper night's rest. One of his arguments was that the children were playing until dark, which meant 11 o'clock, and their fathers could not get to sleep. (Laughter.)

Mr. Pask (South Wales) said that they could not get the children to bed until late at night, and in the morning it was impossible to get them out of bed. They took no notice either of preaching or birching. (Laughter.)

Mr. Smillie said that it was generally understood that the Daylight Saving Act had been an enormous saving to the nation. "Some of us," he said, "can carry our minds back to the historical fact that the children who play now and disturb the peace of adults used to be in the mines at four and five o'clock in the morning, and were kept there ten and twelve hours a day."

By 85 to 57 votes the resolution was defeated.

FURTHER RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Batey moved a resolution expressing thanks to the Executive for the work they had done, and instructing the Official and Executive Committee to proceed to take such steps as might be necessary to complete the standardisation of wages and conditions throughout the whole coalfield, so that the methods of dealing with and regulating wages nationally might secure equal benefits throughout the whole area.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

WAR WAGES.

Mr. Cook (Scotland) moved a resolution to urge on the Government and the Controller of Coal Mines the importance of abolishing the present anomalies in connection with the payment of the war wage.

The resolution was carried.

Mr. Booth (Forest of Dean) moved that the Federation take steps immediately to secure that all afternoon and night work be paid for at the rate of a shift and a quarter for every shift worked.

Mr. T. Cape (Cumberland) seconded, and the resolution was carried.

Mr. Spencer (Derby) moved—"That this Conference instructs the Executive Committee to take the necessary steps to obtain for the miners of Great Britain a week's holiday every year and payment of wages during such holiday."

The resolution was carried.

It was also decided to set apart a day in May each year as a miners' holiday, on which a demonstration will be held for propaganda purposes.

Another resolution expressed alarm at the increasing cost of clothing and foodstuffs, and decided to press for their reduction.

An indignant protest was made against the mutilation of the Housing Bill in the House of Lords, and the Government were asked to restore the town planning clauses.

PRIVATE SITTING.

The Conference sat in private in the afternoon, and at the conclusion it was officially stated that the following were passed:—

"Political Fund.—That the Federation call on all its districts to pay into the Federation Political Fund to their full membership other than exempted members.

"Triple Alliance Conference, to be held on the 23rd inst.—The Miners' Federation proposes that the question of direct action be submitted to the different sections of the Alliance on conscientious objectors and military intervention in trade union disputes.

"A resolution from Northumberland, proposing to double the subscriptions to the Provincial Fund was carried.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

"The election of officers resulted as follows:—Miners' members on the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress:—R. Smillie and H. Twist (Lancashire). Labour Party Executive.—Frank Hodges and J. Varley (Nottingham). Federation officials — Vice-Presidents (Yorks). Re-elected Treasurer—James Robson (Durham). Re-elected Executive Committee—James Cook and W. Webb (Scotland), J. Batey and T. Trotter (Durham), W. Straker (Northumberland), Edward Hughes (North Wales), J. Hoskin and S. Roebuck (Yorkshire), J. Peacock (Lancashire and Cheshire), Frank Hall (Derbyshire), G. Spencer, M.P. (Nottingham), John Baker (Midland Federation), H. W. Booth (Forest of Dean), W. Brace, M.P., V. Hartshorn, M.P., and George Barker (South Wales)."

The Conference was concluded.

NEW IRISH LAND STOCK.

The Lords Commissioners of the Treasury give notice that, pursuant to Section 2 of the Irish Land Act, 1909, and Section 28 of the Irish Land Act, 1903, they have directed the creation of £2,000,000 Guaranteed Three Per Cent. Stock, which Stock has been issued to the National Debt Commissioners.

COMRADES OF THE GREAT WAR.

CENTRAL BRANCH OPENED IN DUBLIN.

LORD FRENCH'S ADVICE TO SOLDIERS: ABSTAIN FROM POLITICS.

The premises at 42 York street, Dublin, which have been acquired as a Central Branch in connection with the "Comrades of the Great War" movement, were opened under auspicious circumstances yesterday afternoon by His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant. The Club, in addition, will also form the headquarters of the movement in Ireland. The premises are of a commodious character, and eminently suitable for the purposes for which they have been selected. The President of the Club is Lieutenant Atkinson, and the membership already comprises over 2,500 men, who have served in all branches of the Service. The place will be mainly used as a venue of recreation where men who have done "their bit" can meet, exchange views, and derive mutual pleasure and amusement. Politics are eschewed within its walls, and its success as a Club is already well assured. It is not yet furnished in the way that the promoters would desire, and an appeal will be made for support in this connection.

The Lord Lieutenant, on arrival at the premises, was cordially greeted by the assembled comrades. He was received by a guard of honour composed of members of the Club, and, having made an inspection of it, he entered the premises. His Excellency, who was accompanied by General Sir William Hickie, and attended by Captain Reford, A.D.C., was first shown through the premises by Mr. Edward White, President of the Royal Irish Automobile Club, who has taken a prominent part in the formation of the branch. Viscount French expressed himself delighted with the suitability of the premises. The party then repaired to the recreation hall, in which was assembled a large gathering of comrades.

THE CHAIRMAN.

Mr. Edward White, who presided, said that he should like, as President, to thank His Excellency sincerely for the great interest that he had always shown in all men who had served in the ranks, and for his special interest in the Dublin Comrades, and for his kindness in coming there. Many of the men there had served under His Excellency in France, and they were delighted to welcome him there. They recognised that it was a further proof of the interest that he took in them. He would like to point out that they had amongst them a considerable number of men who were in actual employment. Here, of course, they laboured under great disadvantages, but they lived in the hope, which they trusted to see fulfilled, of seeing every Government post filled by an ex-soldier. (Hear, hear.) They knew that that was His Excellency's desire also. In regard to the men there, he also pointed out that there were present quite a considerable number of men from the Tallaght district, and, owing to Colonel Kingscote's interest in the men, and that of his agent, Mr. Craig, 75 per cent. of the men were in actual employment. These men, who comprised all grades—carpenters, plasterers, mechanics, and labourers—had come there to welcome His Excellency, and they hoped soon that they would have even more employment amongst the ranks. Their object there was to ask His Excellency to be good enough to open that home for the men. Their numbers were over 2,500 strong, and, though the house was very large, they hoped to make arrangements to make it more suitable. They wanted furniture, but lacked the means to obtain it, and they hoped that His Excellency would be good enough, in opening the new premises, to refer to these facts. (Applause.)

THE LORD LIEUTENANT.

The Lord Lieutenant, in declaring the Club opened, said: I have spoken so often in public on this subject that I think you all know with what earnest concern I desire to help in every way the efforts of this Association. It is a great pleasure to me to open this building, which we hope before long to see properly equipped with all that is so necessary for the efficient carrying on of the great work for which it is designed. From this Central Organisation I am in great hopes that a spirit of loyalty, esprit de corps, and camaraderie may emanate which will spread throughout the whole of Ireland and unite Irish soldiers who have fought and bled for their country in bonds of brotherhood and friendship, which will last throughout all time.

A NON-POLITICAL ORGANISATION.

I am anxious to emphasise the fact that this organisation is, so far as I am aware, the only body of its kind which is absolutely untouched with any political colour, and it is for that reason I am personally able to give it my whole-hearted support. We are Irish soldiers of the British Empire, and having been associated together in the greatest war which the world has ever seen, which has ended in glorious victory, we desire to form a united brotherhood which shall always endure not only to hand down these splendid records intact, but to enable us to be of the greatest possible help to one another here and now.

POLITICAL CONTROVERSY.

In such an aspiration as this there is no room for strife or political controversy, and I implore all my brother soldiers with whom I have been united in this great war—no matter what differences of opinion exist amongst them—to keep those differences absolutely distinct from their fellowship in the great war which has just been brought to a glorious conclusion. The Comrades Movement in Ireland is divided into three sections—North, Mid, and South Ireland—and it is earnestly hoped that the appeal which is being made to the public in each of these different portions of Ireland to come to the assistance of the ex-Service men in their various districts by subscribing some of the funds necessary for carrying on the work, will meet with a generous response. In the earnest hope that all Irish soldiers of the Empire without exception will come to view their position as I have endeavoured to point out to them, I now declare this Club House to be open. (Cheers.)

The proceedings concluded with three hearty cheers for His Excellency.

LORD FRENCH AT BRAY.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT'S HOSPITAL VISITED.

A CURIOUS INCIDENT.

Viscount French, K.P., attended by Captain Reford, A.D.C., yesterday visited the Duke of Connaught's Hospital of Limbless Soldiers and Sailors, at Bray, on the occasion of the farewell reception of the Committee before the patients are removed to the military hospital at Blackrock. The Lord Lieutenant and about three hundred guests were entertained to tea in the grounds. An inspection of the wounded men and of the hospital was made by His Excellency, who was received by the House Committee—Major Wellesley, Chairman; Mr. C. Vandaleur, Mr. J. W. Reigh, Mrs. Le Fanu, Miss Darley, Mr. C. F. Buxton, Mr. F. W. Perry, and the Commandant (Major C. C. de Burgh Daly, R.A.M.C.); Mr. T. Gordon, and the Matron.

Amongst those present were:—Col. and Mrs. Hampden Acton, Mr. Weaver, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Grove Bolton, Judge and Mrs. Brereton Barry, Mr. and Mrs. Jennings Bramley, Mr., Mrs., and Miss Doherty, Miss Darley, Mr. Wellington Darley, Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Denne Bolton, Sir John and Lady Ross, Sir Howard and Lady Grubb, Dowager Lady Grace, Mrs. Humphreys, the Ladies Howard, Sir Robt. and Lady Hodson, Mrs. Tittle Hamilton, Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Rowan Hamilton, Mr. V. C. Le Fanu, Mrs. V. C. Le Fanu and Miss E. Le Fanu, Lady McCullagh, Judge and Mrs. Moore, Sir James and Lady Murphy, Sir Albert and Lady Meldon, Mrs. Orpen, Mr. and Mrs. José, Mr. and Miss O'Connor, Dr. and Mrs. Roantree, Rev. Canon and Mrs. Digby Scott, Rev. H. P. and Mrs. Glenn, Mr. A. Alfred Dickie, etc.

A MISTAKEN MESSAGE.

Before His Excellency arrived, Mr. Perry, Hon. Sec. of the Committee of Management, announced that a telegram had been received stating that the Lord Lieutenant could not attend, as he had met with a slight accident to his knee, and had found it necessary to take rest. In the circumstances General Russell, D.D.M.S., had kindly consented to inspect the men and the hospital in the absence of the Lord Lieutenant. They proposed that Major Wellesley should read the address that it was intended to make to Lord French, and General Russell had undertaken to hand it to His Excellency on Saturday.

Major Wellesley then read the address, and General Russell, expressing regret at the absence of the Commander-in-Chief, Sir Frederick Shaw, conveyed the thanks of the military authorities for the splendid work which had been done for our soldiers in that hospital. Everything possible had been done for them. They had had the benefit of the best medical and surgical advice and of the best mechanical work that they could get in Ireland. He was sure that it had all been a labour of love, but they might congratulate themselves, as he congratulated them on behalf of the military authorities, on the very great success of their work.

The inspection by General Russell had taken place, and the Commandant was putting soldiers fitted with mechanical limbs through some interesting work, when a motor car drove up, and Lord French stepped out. He showed no signs of physical disability. Explanations followed, and it transpired that somebody had mistaken a message from General Sir Frederick

SPECIAL EXTRA.

PRESIDENT WILSON AND THE PEACE TREATY.

A Reuter's telegram from Washington on Friday states—The Senate to-day rejected by thirty-three votes against twenty-seven, an amendment to the Civil Appropriation Bill, moved by Mr. Fall, Republican, the object of which was to put an end to all restrictions on trade with Germany. Senator Kapper, Republican, who had a conversation to-day with Mr. Wilson at White House, says—The President is insistent on the necessity of the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations being ratified without any reservations.

A DAY OF REJOICING.

The Daily Telegraph says:—The country will keep high festival to-day, for the greatest and noblest of all the crusades has come to a glorious end. We remember to-day not only the living, but the dead; not only this country, but the Allied countries. We have lived through days of anxious fear and agonising terror, and now from the hill-top of victory we can look back over the path which we have trodden, a path reddened by heroes' blood, and sanctified by streams of tears.

MR. ASQUITH AND LIBERALISM.

AN IRISH SETTLEMENT.

Mr. Asquith privately addressed a Conference of the Home Counties Liberal Federation at Caxton Hall, London, yesterday afternoon. Lord Saye and Sele presided in the absence of the Marquis of Lincolnshire, who was suffering from a chill.

Mr. Asquith spoke for thirty-five minutes, and his observations elicited hearty applause.

On the motion of Lord Onslow, seconded by Sir Harry Verney, it was resolved that determined efforts should be made throughout the Home Counties to revive the old spirit of Liberalism by putting forward a constructive programme of financial and social reform, and by opposing the insidious attempts of reactionaries to impose restrictions on the trade and liberties of the United Kingdom.

On the motion of Sir Donald Maclean, seconded by Sir Thomas Bramsdon, it was further resolved "That this Conference strongly condemns the wild extravagance still characteristic of so many Government Departments, and calls on the Government to take immediate steps to put an end to it; reaffirms its conviction that there can be no settlement on the Irish question except on the basis of self-government in that country; condemns the Government's Land Acquisition Bill; welcomes the establishment of a League of Nations, and urges the earliest possible abolition of conscription in all its forms."

THE PRINCE OF WALES AND AUSTRALIA.

Speaking at a dinner in honour of General Birdwood in London last night, the Prince of Wales referred in enthusiastic terms to the work of the Australian Forces, and said that he looked forward to the first opportunity that he would get to visit Australia. He realised the outstanding and vitally important part that Australia had played in the great world struggle. Now that peace was signed, there were difficult times ahead, but he felt sure that the great British spirit which had carried us triumphantly through the last five years would help to solve the problems, and that we should be able to maintain the British Empire as united and prosperous as it had ever been.

ILLNESS OF GENERAL BOTHA.

The African World is informed that General Louis Botha was in a serious condition for some days after leaving England from the bursting of an artery in the leg. When Madeira was reached, however, he was out of immediate danger. The General's steamer, the Cape Polonio, is due to arrive at Cape Town to-day.

THE PRIME MINISTER.

The Prime Minister arrived in London last evening, after his short rest at Criccieth. Mr. Lloyd George looked sunburnt and well, and it was learned that he had derived much benefit from his stay in North Wales. He had a warm welcome from the crowds at the station and in the neighbourhood of Downing street. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd George have been invited to join the King and Queen on the special stand in the Mall to witness to-day's march.

MONROE DOCTRINE FOR FAR EAST.

During the prolonged sessions of the European Peace Conference (writes the Tokio Correspondent of the Morning Post) Japan has been subjected to extraordinary tension, and she has not been standing the strain very well. The vernacular Press has been in so extreme a state of excitement that one wondered whether such violence of language would be followed by violence of action. But after the news arrived that Japan's claims regarding Kiao-chau had been conceded by the Conference there was a remarkable suspension of agitation, and Western nations began to be slightly tolerable again.

To anyone familiar with Oriental tactics there was, however, some reason in all this apparent madness. The race-discrimination question and the denunciation of England and America for not supporting it became a red herring across the trail, confusing the issue for the only vital question Japan had at stake, the acquirement of Tsingtau. In these tactics Japan betrayed a knowledge of occidental psychology, for which even her most familiar friends would hardly have given her credit.

From the outset it is certain that Japan's main triumph at the Peace Conference was to gain Allied recognition of her treaty compelled from China in May 1915. Great Britain had already agreed to it as a condition of Japan's entering the war. The only difficulty was America. With America the race-question was bound to have most weight, and she would be likely to go a long way toward getting rid of it. In fact, the quickest way to make America listen to any Oriental question is to threaten a revival of the immigration difficulty, that subject being completely in the hands of Japan, according to the so-called Gentleman's Agreement. The delay in coming to a decision on the Kiao-chau question was laid altogether at the feet of President Wilson, and the few days of suspense were devoted to heaping abuse upon his head. No sooner was the trick done than the agitation ceased, and there was a great calm.

In their spasms of relaxation after the great agitation some of the vernacular papers are maintaining that even the granting of Kiao-chau to Japan would be no triumph, for it is no more than was guaranteed to her by China without any Peace Conference. They contend that what Japan should have demanded and obtained was recognition of her priority of right and interest in China. What Japan most wants is to have Western nations understand that she is first and foremost in China. Of course the real meaning of this attitude is that Japan wants a Monroe Doctrine for East Asia. The League of Nations, has formally admitted a Monroe Doctrine for America. By implication such a doctrine cannot now be denied to Asia.

Japan interprets the clause on regional understandings in the League of Nations terms to cover her numerous regional understandings with China as well as the Ishii-Lansing Agreement with America in regard to China. By its admission of the Monroe Doctrine the League of Nations recognises the priority of American interests on her side of the Atlantic; and Japan has a right to expect and demand the same recognition for her alleged priority of interest on this side of the Pacific. In fact, the whole tenor and trend of the League of Nations document is to imply non-interference with "regional understandings" for the sake of peace. And then the decision of the Peace Conference to accede to Japan's claims in regard to Kiao-chau but confirms her contention.

It is obvious that the main reason why Japan insists on retaining hold of Kiao-chau while promising its restoration to China is to enforce her Monroe Doctrine for East Asia, and finally have it formally admitted and honoured by occidental nations. She promises the return of the territory to China, so that China may aid her in the realisation of the desired doctrine, as China's only hope of freeing herself from foreign interference. With one base at Tsingtau and another at Port Arthur, Japan guards the main gateway to China. With her feet in Korea and one hand in Manchuria and the other in Kiao-chau, Japan hopes to resist successfully any temptation of China to grant further concessions to Western aggression.

China naturally does not want Japan to establish herself at Tsingtau, any more than Panama wants America on the Isthmus; but Japan thinks that is because China is blind to her own interests. Japan believes that if she did not hold these strategic bases some other country would be tempted to gain them, as Germany did in Kiao-chau and Russia in Manchuria. Japan will get out of China, but never until there is no possibility of any other Power getting in. If China wants to be rid of Japan she must make up her mind to be rid of all the other foreigners first. Japan's policy renders it necessary for her to hold the precedence in China as a protection of her defences. Her Empire would be unsafe with any foreign Power established on the coasts of China.

GENERAL PERSHING HONOURED.

THE FREEDOM OF LONDON.

At the Guildhall, London, yesterday, General Pershing was presented with the Freedom of the City and with a Sword of Honour.

The Lord Mayor and the Aldermen were present.

General Pershing, in acknowledging the presentation, paid a tribute to the deeds of Great Britain's manhood. He said that he loved the British people, and always sought to encourage good relations between the two countries.

Afterwards General Pershing was entertained to luncheon at the Mansion House.

In a speech from the balcony to the crowds, General Pershing expressed thanks for his welcome, on behalf of himself and the officers of the American Expeditionary Force, who had, he said, fought beside the splendid, aggressive, and stubborn British "Tommy."

The Lord Mayor presided at the lunch, and Mr. Winston Churchill was among those present.

In supporting the toast of "The Guests," proposed by the Lord Mayor, Mr. Churchill said that from the moment the Germans, in their vanity and folly, drove the United States to draw the sword, there was no doubt that Germany was ruined, and the cause of freedom was saved, and that the British and American democracies would begin once again to write their history in common.

General Pershing, responding, said that out of curiosity he asked the Lord Mayor whether or not any foreigner had ever before received a Sword of Honour at his hands. The Lord Mayor must be a diplomat, added the General, because, without hesitation, he replied—"You are not a foreigner." And, continued the American Commander, we do not feel ourselves foreigners. The kinship is very dear to us. We must establish a liaison between the people of the two countries.

DINNER AT THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

General Pershing was last night the guest of the Government at a dinner at the House of Commons. The proceedings were private.

ARRIVAL OF MARSHAL FOCH.

Marshal Foch arrived at Folkestone Harbour yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. A dense fog prevailed, and guns, fog bells, and syrens were sounded in order that the vessel might pick her way. The Generalissimo was received on landing by General Sir Henry Horne, Commanding the Eastern Division, and by other distinguished officers and officials. He inspected a guard of honour of the Middlesex Regiment, whose band played the "Marseillaise." He afterwards entered a special saloon in a waiting train, three cheers being given at the call of the Mayor. A salute was fired by a battery of the Royal Artillery from East Cliffe.

Marshal Foch arrived in London, at Victoria Station, instead of Charing Cross, where thousands were disappointed. Among the reception party were Sir Douglas Haig and representatives of the Services. The Irish Guards' band played the "Marseillaise," and a guard of honour of the Welsh Guards was posted at the reception-room. Subsequently the party entered carriages sent specially by the King from Buckingham Palace. The distinguished visitor was wildly cheered.

"BRAVERY OF THE FIRST ORDER."

V.C. FOR A GALLANT AIRMAN.

It was announced in last night's London Gazette that the King has approved of the Victoria Cross to the late Captain (Acting Major) Edward Mannock, D.S.O., M.C., 85th Squadron, Royal Air Force, in recognition of bravery of the first order in aerial combat. On June 17th, 1918, he attacked a Holberstadt machine near Armentières, and destroyed it from a height of 8,000 feet. On July 7th, 1918, near Doulieu, he attacked and destroyed a Fokker (red-bodied) machine, which went vertically into the ground from a height of 1,500 feet. Shortly afterwards he ascended 1,000 feet and attacked another Fokker biplane, firing sixty rounds into it, which produced an immediate spin, resulting, it is believed, in a crash. On July 14th, 1918, near Merville, he attacked and crashed a Fokker from 7,000 feet, and brought a two-seater down damaged. Only July 19th, 1918, near Merville, he fired eighty rounds into an Albatross two-seater, which went to the ground in flames. On July 20th, 1918, east of La Bassée, he attacked and crashed a two-seater from a height of 10,000 feet. About an hour afterwards he attacked, at 8,000 feet, a Fokker biplane near Steenwercke, and drove it down out of control emitting smoke. On July 22nd, 1918, near Armentières, he destroyed an enemy triplane from a height of 10,000 feet. Major Mannock was awarded the undermentioned decorations for his previous combats in the air in France and Flanders:—Military Cross, gazetted in September, 1917; bar, gazetted October 18th, 1917; Distinguished Service Order, gazetted September 16th, 1918; bar, gazetted 16th September, 1918; second bar, gazetted August 3rd, 1918. This highly-distinguished officer, during the whole of his career in the Royal Air Force, was an outstanding example of fearless courage, remarkable skill, devotion to duty and self-sacrifice, which has never been surpassed. The total number of machines definitely accounted for by Major Mannock up to the date of his death in France (July 26th, 1918), is fifty. The total specified in the Gazette of August 3rd, 1918, was incorrectly given as forty-eight, instead of forty-one.

IRISH SOLDIER'S GALLANT ACT.

The London Gazette last night contains the announcement that the King has been pleased to award the Albert Medal for saving life to Private Edward M'Carthy, M.M., late of the Prince of Wales's Leinster Regiment (Royal Canadians).

The announcement states:—Posthumous Award—On the 6th January, 1919, two horses, harnessed to a limber, having been left unattended at Wermelskirchen, took fright and ran away. While they were going at a great speed down the village street, Private M'Carthy rushed forward and seized the reins. He would doubtless have succeeded in stopping the horses had the reins held, but they broke, and he was thrown under the limber, which passed over his body, inflicting injuries from which he subsequently died. He succeeded, however, in diverting the limber from two children, who would otherwise undoubtedly have been killed.

SOCIALIST PLOT AT GENOA.

A Reuter's telegram from Rome on Friday says—The movement for a general strike on the 21st seems to be losing momentum rapidly. Numbers of trade union elements, representing all classes of workers, continue to announce their intention to refrain from participation in the strike. The Stampa learns that in the course of searches conducted at course of searches at the homes of some Socialist leaders near Genoa, daggers and Army revolvers and rifles were discovered, as well as a number of documents which revealed a plan to take possession of the principal establishments in Genoa, especially the banks.

STRIKE MOVEMENT IN ITALY.

Several members of the Central Committee of the Railwaymen's Union, says a Rome telegram, have issued an order to the men not to strike. The Avanti publishes a protest against this order by other members of the Committee, who urge railwaymen not to obey it. The Confederation of Catholic workers has revoked its order that its members shall take part in a general strike, and has decided to allow its branches complete liberty of action in the matter.

LORD FRENCH AT BRAY.

Shaw, Commander-in-Chief of the Forces, for a communication from the Viceroy.

His Excellency, smiling, proceeded to inspect the soldiers and nurses. Major Daly put a number of the men who had been fitted with artificial legs through walking exercise, and then showed what men who had lost arms could do with the aid of the mechanical limbs known as the "Bray arm. They dug with pick and spade, and shovel and fork, wheeled barrows, swung sledge hammers at pile-driving, chopped timber with long-handled hatchets, and used the scythe and clippers in cutting grass. The work was done so efficiently as to cause frequent applause from the spectators, and Lord French, who watched everything closely, said that it had all been wonderfully well done.

His Excellency was then presented with the address from the Committee, which was read by Major Wellesley.

THE ADDRESS.

The address said that on behalf of the Committee of the Duke of Connaught's Auxiliary Hospital they thanked His Excellency for his kindness in coming to the farewell reception. Proceeding, it reviewed the history of the hospital, and stated that an appeal had been made for funds chiefly amongst the inhabitants of the South and West of Ireland. There had been a most liberal response. Six thousand pounds had been received in subscriptions, in addition to a sum of £2,000 granted by the British Red Cross and the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. Especially mentioned was the name of Mrs. Adair, who most liberally guaranteed the rent of £300 a year. The hospital was opened, fully equipped with sixty beds, on 18th April, 1917. Three hundred and twenty-eight artificial legs and 120 arms had been supplied, and a large number of pensioners had been admitted for the repair, adjustment, and renewal of their limbs. In all, 958 cases had been dealt with. The Committee had been most fortunate in the appointment of Captain (now Major) C. C. De Burgh Daly as Commandant of the hospital, and it was to his zeal for the welfare of the men and his unfailing sympathy with them that the success which the Committee hoped had been achieved was largely due. In order to provide employment for the men substantial sheds had been built, in which boot-making and repairing and basket-making had been taught with considerable success. In cases where men after their discharge from the Army had set up in business for themselves free grants to give them a start in life had been made by the Committee. Many men had been placed in comfortable situations. The Committee said that thanks were due for the loyal co-operation and devotion to duty of the paid staff and of the unselfish band of voluntary workers. His Excellency would be pleased to hear that the premises were now being taken over by the Royal Drummond Institution for the orphan daughters of soldiers. They regretted that their activities in connection with that hospital must now cease, but rejoiced, in common with all His Majesty's loyal subjects, that this result had been brought about by the winning of a glorious and honourable peace, in the attainment of which His Excellency and the immortal Army that he had led had played such a heroic and memorable part. (Applause.)

THE LORD LIEUTENANT.

The Lord Lieutenant, in reply, said—Mr. Chairman and Committee of Management of the Duke of Connaught's Auxiliary Hospital, I have listened with deep interest to the history you have given me of the work which has been done during the war by your hospital. No kinds of institution have done more valuable work than those which have given their exclusive attention to dealing with men who have become permanently maimed by the loss of limb. The amount of labour and research which has been so munificently bestowed upon the study of artificial limbs deserves for those who have been engaged in it the warmest gratitude of their fellow-countrymen, and they also have their reward in the extraordinary and unlooked-for success which has crowned their devoted efforts. I join most heartily with you, Mr. Chairman, in the warm acknowledgment which you make of the generous response which was made to your appeal for funds, and I agree we should all be specially grateful to Mrs. Adair. I also heartily endorse all you say with regard to Major De Burgh Daly for the devoted energy which he has brought to bear in securing the success which has been achieved.

EMPLOYMENT FOR INJURED MEN.

I am very glad that you have made so strong an appeal to our countrymen to do their utmost to give employment to men who have been permanently injured before all others. I feel quite sure that the natural generosity which burns in every Irish heart will not fail to realise the justice of this appeal. I join with you in wishing every success to the Royal Drummond Institution for the Orphan Daughters of Soldiers, who are replacing you here. I had the great pleasure of visiting that Institution in Dublin some weeks ago, and I am delighted to find they are being so happily and properly located. You have referred in very kind terms to the splendid Army which I had the honour to command during the first part of the war. In their name and in my own, I wish to express to you, Mr. Green, Chairman of the Committee of Management; to Mr. De Renzy and Mr. Perry, your Hon. Secretaries; to Mr. Wellesley, Chairman of the House Committee, and to Mr. Vandeleur, Hon. Secretary of the House Committee, and to all others who have helped, our warmest gratitude. (Applause.)

At the call of Major De Burgh Daly, three hearty cheers were given for His Excellency, who inspected the hospital before leaving.

ORDER OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

RECENT INVESTITURE AT THE VICEREGAL LODGE.

The Dublin Gazette announces that the Lord Lieutenant, by command of His Majesty the King, on Thursday, the 3rd day of July, 1919, at the Viceregal Lodge, held an Investiture of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, when the following were invested with the insignia of their respective classes:—

KNIGHT COMMANDER.—Henry McLaughlin, Esq., on whom was conferred the honour of Knighthood.

COMMANDERS.—Margaret Craig, Lady McCullagh, O.B.E.; Mrs. Julia McMordie, M.B.E.; Robert Garrett Campbell, Esq.; William Patrick Joseph Connolly, Esq., I.S.O.; Brigadier-General Dayrell Talbot Hammond, C.B.; James Donald Keay, Esq.; Edmund Arthur Trouton, Esq.; Captain William Drummond Church, R.N.

OFFICERS.—The Hon. Mrs. Mary de la Poer, Mrs. Olivia Mary Greer, Mrs. Alice Helen Henry, Miss Beatrice Jane O'Brien, Miss Irene Mary Stokes, Lieutenant Henry Harrison, M.C.; Lieutenant Ædan Cox, Colonel George Cadell Dobbs, Arthur Charles Forbes, Esq.; Reginald Heber Keatinge, Esq.; John Macintosh, Esq., M.D.; Captain James Macoun, James Rodney O'Donnell, Esq.; Reginald Peacocke, Esq., M.D.; Walter Henry Shepperd, Esq.; Lieutenant-Colonel Michael Williamson.

MEMBERS.—Mrs. Elizabeth Clegg, Mrs. Helen Frances Hartopp Gubbins, Sir Charles Burton Barrington, Bart.; Benjamin Henry Curnow, Esq.; James Dunne, Esq.; George Thomas Fidler, Esq.; James Fraser, Esq.; George Henry Gordon, Esq.; John Ewing Johnston, Esq.; Frank Harper Lambourn, Esq.; Major Richard Grainger Denis O'Callaghan, Lieutenant-Colonel Robert Hervey St. Clair Robinson, Arthur Wellesley Winder, Esq., LL.D.; Dudley Evelyn Bruce McCorkell, Esq.

Major Nevile Rodwell Wilkinson, C.V.O., Ulster King of Arms, and George Dames Burtchaell, Esq., K.C., Athlone Pursuivant, were in attendance.

KILDARE FARM LABOUR DISPUTE.

Mr. Frederick V. Devere, Secretary to the County Kildare Farmers' Union, writes:—"Will you permit me to say, for the benefit of the public, who are being misled by reported settlements between members of this Union and the Transport Workers' Union, that many men in all districts have returned to work after renouncing membership of the Transport Union, that the reported 'settlements' are in practically all cases pure inventions; that in only one case of a member of our Union have I any knowledge of a settlement having been made. Will the Transport Union give the names of our members, and state the number of men in respect of whom they allege settlements have been made? That will clear the air, and leave the public and our members in a position to judge the extent to which the farmers of this county have been disloyal to their Union. It is significant that the name of not one single member of our Union has so far been published in these reports of settlements alleged to have been made."

SOME NEW BOOKS.

THE SEPOY.

Sikhs, Rajputs, Gurkhas, Jats, Punjabis, Pathans—these, and a host more of whose names the western world is hardly cognisant, are included under the comprehensive designation of sepoys. Of their fighting prowess a hundred frontier "incidents" can bear witness prior to 1914, since when they have demonstrated it to the whole world on the battlefields of Flanders, Mesopotamia, and Palestine. The highest tribute to the loyalty of India during the late war may be found in the official figures concerning the Indian Army given by the author in the present work. "At the outbreak of war the strength of the Army in India was 76,953 British and 239,561 Indian. During the war 1,161,789 Indians were recruited. The grand total of all ranks sent overseas from India was 1,215,338. The casualties sustained by the force were 101,439." With regard to these figures it should be noted that "no class of sepoy is included which has been enlisted for the first time since 1914."

Mr. Candler writes with a first-hand knowledge of his subject, for in Mesopotamia, where he was a war correspondent, he came across the flower of our Indian Army and "met with all the sixteen types included in this volume." Two facts stand out prominently in his book. The first is the "sworn confraternity between the British and Indian officer, and the strong tie that binds the sepoy to his sahib." Of this personal devotion on the part of the sepoy to his British officer the author has many fine tales to tell. The second outstanding fact is the author's revelation of the spirit with which these sepoys, one and all, faced hardship and death. They were instinct with the sporting spirit—as instinct with it as any of their western fellow-soldiers. To the sepoy—and, in particular, is this true of the Gurkhas—the war appeared as the supreme form of sport. "There has been some shikar (hunt)," was the Ghurka's usual description of a battle. Then they all have their traditions to live up to—traditions of caste, race, regiment, that are singularly well exemplified in the reply of Teku Singh, a Rajput, to his subaltern. Teku Singh had got out of a trench in order to adjust a jammed machine gun. "The subaltern called to him to keep his head down. 'What does dying matter, sahib?' he answered, echoing at Sheikh Saad the spirit of Chitore. 'The only fit place for a Rajput to die is on the field of battle.'"

The high level at which recruiting in India kept throughout the war is a superb tribute to the beneficent effect of the British governance of that Empire. "When a man goes home on leave," the subaltern explained, "he brings back his pals. There is always a huge list of umedwars (candidates) to choose from. It is like waiting to get into the Travellers' or the Senior Naval and Military." We are glad that Mr. Candler has seen fit to supplement his work on the Mesopotamia Campaign by this small volume, for it reveals to us the type of men to whom the success of that campaign was due, and it also gives us—in a compact and highly interesting way—much valuable information about some of the more prominent races from whom the ranks of the Indian Army are filled. We know too little about the gallant subjects of the Indian Empire, and Mr. Candler's book will fill a place on our bookshelves that has too long been empty. We owe it to the memory of those gallant Indian soldiers who died side by side with our own kith and kin that we should make some effort to understand them and their great country.

PROSTITUTION IN EUROPE.

This book is an abridged edition of a larger work bearing the same title. We are glad to see it in this cheaper form, for it thus comes within the reach of all who are engaged in tackling a very difficult problem that stands in the very forefront of social hygiene. Mr. Flexner treats the subject in a very thorough manner, and has made an exhaustive inquiry into the various methods of grappling with the evil in the large centres on the Continent and in England. He has something valuable to say on such things as the necessity for sex instruction, which should be given at the psychological moment in the life of the growing boy or girl; the growth in the change of opinion from the crime concept to the vice concept (a change which denotes greater public concern in the subject); the effects of segregation; registration, with its objectionable accompaniments and its tendency to legalise an illegitimate traffic and thus increase the body of venereal disease; the closing of brothels; abolition (i.e., the opposing of all statutory enactments or police decrees authorising the inscription, etc., of prostitutes) as contrasted with regulation; the inefficacy of the Continental "morals police" to lessen the volume of traffic; compulsion as contrasted with the voluntary method in the matter of medical treatment.

Time is bringing with it a new point of view in regard to this problem. Europe has been a man's world, managed by men and largely for men. Laws dealing with the subject have been passed by men who, as a class, have been lacking in due respect for womanhood, and especially for the women of the lower classes. But Europe is coming more and more to the view that "the two participants in every immoral act are of equal responsibility." Public opinion needs strengthening not only in its judgments on this great problem, but in connection with two other questions which are interwoven with it—viz., the management of the drink traffic and of the amusement traffic. We must start with the young, who should receive knowledge and warning from those most qualified to give it—the parents. Prostitution must be dealt with as part of the larger social problems with which it is inextricably entangled. Tuberculosis, alcohol, the tenement system, all forms of commercialised vice—civilisation is running a horrible risk if she is not preparing to tackle these monstrosities.

LETTERS FROM FRANCE.

It is difficult to say how far letters written to one person will interest others for whom they were never intended. The author of "Three Chevrons" has been led to believe that his letters will fulfil this purpose, and we are inclined to agree—with reservations. So long as the war is fresh in our memories the description of a battle area, a bit of the front, or a back area, with which we are personally acquainted, will always contain an interest for us. Whether it will, or will not, possess any attraction for those who have no such personal interest is open to question. A letter is either too personal or too conversational to appeal to a complete outsider with no knowledge of the places described, unless it be woven into a story or written with the highest art. In "Three Chevrons" the author has published letters sent mostly from France during the first three years of the war. They have not been touched up or prepared in any way, but are published as they were originally written. Major Bidder has sampled many a French billet, and his descriptions are admirable—tinged here and there with humour and everywhere with sympathy. They are wonderfully free from the horrors of war, although personal recollections may force one to read between the lines now and then. These letters must have been more than welcome to their recipients, and, on the whole, are worthy of a wide audience.

PARLIAMENT.

HOUSES FOR IRISH WORKERS.

THIRD READING CARRIED.

MR. O'CONNOR AND THE ULSTER MEMBERS.

THE NEW POLICE BILL.

In the House of Commons yesterday, on the report stage of the Working Classes (Ireland) Bill,

The Attorney-General for Ireland (Mr. Henry) moved a new clause to enable a local authority to lodge compensation in respect of land in the County Court, instead of in the High Court.

The clause was agreed to.

The Attorney-General also moved an amendment to Clause 1, in order to make it clear that the bill applied to every urban authority throughout Ireland.

The amendment was passed.

The Attorney-General moved an amendment to Clause 18 to provide that the notices required by the by-laws in the case of vacant premises should be posted on the premises.

The amendment was agreed to.

On the motion for the third reading.

MR. T. P. O'CONNOR.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor said that he hoped that the Attorney-General would be able to assure the House that the Government on an early date would introduce a supplementary bill to amend the Labourers Act, as the present bill would be incomplete unless that was done. He thanked the Ulster members for not considering the matter from the Belfast point of view alone, and for having due regard for the other parts of Ireland. As to the financial terms, some members thought that the English and Scotch terms would be better, and since the bill had passed the Committee a number of representations had been made by responsible people. Personally he would have liked to have seen introduced into the bill what he might describe as Local Option, so that local authorities who thought that the provisions of the English bill were better should have the right to adopt the English terms. If it was found that the bill was not as successful as was anticipated, it might be necessary to raise this question again. He was bound under the circumstances to adopt a position of neutrality on the bill, which he hoped would produce a revolution in the intolerable conditions of Ireland, which they all desired to see alleviated.

THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

The Attorney-General for Ireland said that the bill to amend the Labourers Act would be introduced as soon as possible, and, as far as was possible, proceeded with concurrently with the bill before the House. The Government regretted that they were only able to meet the hon. member's suggestions half way. He thought that the Chief Secretary had gone a long way in trying to get all the concessions that he could in reference to the finances of the measure, and in other matters. Although they might not be regarded as satisfactory they were substantial concessions. He trusted that the result of the bill would be to confer very great benefits on the toilers of the urban and rural districts alike.

The bill was read a third time.

THE POLICE BILL.

Mr. Shortt, in moving the second reading of the Police Bill, said that, having regard to the importance of their work, the police forces of the country were not large in numbers. The Metropolitan Police Force numbered in all ranks 21,500 men, the City of London Police 1,160, the 58 county police forces 18,000, and the 128 city and borough forces 19,000, which gave for England and Wales about 60,000. In Scotland there were 21 county and 29 city and borough forces, numbering under 6,000 men. The Desborough Committee appointed in March to inquire into police grievances was authorised to deal with all questions, except that of a Police Union and its recognition, which was specifically excluded from the terms of reference. The Committee recommended that in the ranks of constables and sergeants there should be a standard rate of pay, but not in the higher ranks. They recommended that constables should start at a weekly wage of 70s., rising by annual increments to 90s., and further payments of 2s. 6d. each for good conduct and efficiency, so that after 22 years' service a constable could be receiving 95s. a week. A sergeant would start at 100s. per week, rising by five annual increments of 2s. 6d. to 112s. 6d. per week. These two recommendations had been accepted by the Government. The advances would be retrospective to April 1st last, and on behalf of back pay it was proposed to pay to the constables and sergeants in the Metropolitan area an immediate sum of £10 each. It was hoped that the same thing would be done throughout the country. The higher ranks would, as far as possible, receive similar remuneration for similar work.

FREE HOUSES FOR CONSTABLES.

There would be a minimum scale for Chief Constables. The Committee recommended that a policeman should have a free house or its equivalent in a rent allowance, and that had been accepted. The recommendations with regard to pensions required further consideration before final acceptance. The Government felt bound to adhere absolutely and entirely to their decision, that there could be nothing in the nature of an Industrial Trade Union connected with the Police Force, and no man could belong to such a union and remain in the Police Force. The bill set up within the Police Force itself an organisation which would be really representative as being based on an absolutely democratic system of franchise. The Police Federation would represent every member of every police force, however small, and it would have access to the highest authorities within the force. On two points only would they be debarred from making representations, namely, individual promotions and cases of individual discipline, though they could raise general principles relating thereto. He thought that the bill represented a sincere and honest attempt to put matters on a more generous and satisfactory basis, so far as the police were concerned.

LABOUR PARTY AND THE BILL.

Mr. Sexton accepted the provisions of the bill with regard to pay and conditions. He admitted that there could be no affinity between a Police Union and an Industrial Trade Union, but the initiative to form such a union should be taken by the men themselves, and not by the Home Office. He moved the rejection of the bill.

Mr. O'Grady opposed the bill, because it proposed to suppress a trade union. He seconded the rejection.

Sir J. Remnant said that he wished that the contentious portions of the bill could have been omitted.

Mr. Johnstone thought that the bill should not dictate to the men what they should do.

Mr. J. Jones believed that the bill would play into the hands of the "hot air" extremists. The House ought to eliminate that part which set up a spoon-fed organisation, and threw down a challenge to every Labour organisation in the country.

Other members also opposed the Police Federation proposals, and Mr. A. Short described them as Prussianism.

Major Baird, Under-Secretary for Home Affairs, denied that the Police Federation was in any sense an attack on trade unionism. It represented the result of conferences and discussions with the men themselves. Every attempt had been made to work in the existing Police Union, but after a nine months' trial they had failed.

Mr. Clynes said that he did not think that a real trial had been given to so young and unique an organisation as the Police Union. They could not kill the trade union ideal by law.

Mr. Shortt—We are not going to try.

Mr. Clynes—You are going to kill the trade union name, if not the ideal. They agreed that it was necessary that discipline should be absolutely secured, but the bill should not be pressed in its present form. They should try and meet the reasonable demands of the men, and the just requirements of the State.

The amendment was negatived, and the bill was read a second time.

TREATY PEACE EXPENSES.

The Financial Resolution for meeting the expenses incurred under the bill for carrying into effect the Treaty of Peace was considered on Report.

Mr. Baldwin said that it was impossible to give any estimate of the cost, but the chief items of expenditure included the British proportion of the Secretariat of the League Nations, and the salaries of British members the Boundary Commission.

The resolution was agreed to.

The Financial Resolution guaranteeing the payment of interest on a loan of six million pounds by the Government of the Soudan passed through Committee.

The Retired Officers (Civil Employment) Bill was read a second time.

The House adjourned at 3.25.

COURTMARTIAL RESULT.

Michael O'Connell, civilian, of Thurles, was tried by District Courtmartial at Cork on 30th June, 1919, and sentenced to nine months' imprisonment without hard labour, on charges under Regulation 9 A.A., Defence of the Realm Regulations, of being in possession of a revolver and ammunition without a permit. The evidence showed that a loaded revolver was found by the police under the grate in a bedroom occupied by the accused.

FRANCE'S SECURITY ASSURED.

M. CLEMENCEAU SATISFIED.

THE TREATIES WITH BRITAIN AND AMERICA.

The Press Association's Paris Correspondent telegraphs, under Thursday's date:—Addressing the Peace Treaty Committee of the Chamber today on the question of the left bank of the Rhine, M. Clemenceau gave an account of the negotiations on this subject, and declared that the Peace Treaty and the Guarantee Treaties assured the security of France. The Premier explained the Guarantee Treaties and the military aid promised by America and Great Britain in the event of provocation by Germany, and said that if these treaties had existed in 1914 they would have prevented war, even with a strong and redoubtable Germany. After referring to the resources of production and manufacture possessed by America and Great Britain, M. Clemenceau said that he had every confidence in them for the safety of France, for at the beginning of a just war these two free democracies would never limit their efforts; on the contrary, they would do everything in their power. M. Clemenceau, however, insisted on the necessity for the occupation of the left bank of the Rhine for a certain number of years by the Entente, and said that the moral and material presence of America and Great Britain at their side was assured. He pointed out that the German Army had been reduced to 100,000 men, and that any movement of troops within forty kilometres of the right bank of the Rhine would be regarded as an act of provocation. The safety of France, he continued, was sufficiently assured for an appreciable reduction of the term of military service to be carried into effect.

At the conclusion of M. Clemenceau's speech, which lasted nearly three hours, the Committee heard M. René Besnard on the question of the German Colonies, which, he said, Germany had been found unfit to administer, and had had to give up. Togoland and the Cameroons, which were conquered by Franco-British forces, and upon which the prior claims of France were recognised, constituted a complement to Dahomey and Equatorial Africa, and went to France, while a Franco-British agreement, which had to be ratified by the League of Nations, regulated the right of the two countries in these territories.

BARON VON LERSNER'S APPOINTMENT.

It is officially announced, says Reuter's Versailles Correspondent, that Baron von Lersner has been appointed Chargé d'Affaires, to look after German interests in France.

THE EX-KAISER'S TRIAL.

An Exchange Paris telegram says:—The Committee charged with dealing with responsibility for crimes against international law holds to the exact terms of the Treaty, and formally refuses the request of Hindenburg and Bethmann-Hollweg to be tried in place of the Kaiser.

The Zurich correspondent of the Echo de Paris states that according to a report appearing in the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung the Dutch Government has consented to the extradition of the ex-Kaiser. The report states that the ex-Kaiser will be officially handed over at The Hague to functionaries appointed by the Allies.

A Paris telegram says:—The Responsibilities Committee has presented its report to the Supreme Council, urging that no other persons can be tried in place of William II. of Hohenzollern.

THE DREAM OF HOUSING REFORMERS.

MR. COWAN AND THE NEW IRISH BILL.

WORK OF THE DUBLIN CORPORATION.

Mr. P. C. Cowan, Chairman of the Irish Housing Committee, attended a meeting of the Sub-Committee on Housing of the Dublin Watch Committee, which was held at 29 South Anne street, Dublin, yesterday evening, and spoke on the subject of the Irish Housing Bill and Utility Societies. He said that women had the first right to be consulted in everything concerning the home, and he regretted that there was not in Ireland, as there was in England and in Scotland, a committee of ladies appointed in connection with the planning of tolerably reasonable houses. In Dublin women had done much in the direction of improving social conditions, and as an illustration of the usefulness of women in relation to these conditions he mentioned the Alexandra College Guild, which had been very successful in managing tenement houses and the Pembroke model cottages. He hoped that in the new era in housing in Ireland woman would take her rightful place, and give that help which she alone could give in housing schemes.

THE HOUSING BILL.

"You are doubtless interested in the Irish Housing Bill in Parliament," continued Mr. Cowan. "I have some very hopeful and pleasing things to say of the Irish Housing Bill. In the first place it seemed to have the fullest, the warmest sympathy of members of Parliament from every corner of these islands. So marked was that sympathy that the Chief Secretary, who applied to the passing of the bill through Committee great patience and very great skill, was gratified to find that no division or vote became necessary on it. The bill, as it passed through Committee, is the bill unanimously agreed on by the important Committee which dealt with it." Dealing with the special features of the bill, Mr. Cowan said that these special features might roughly be described as giving effect to most of what had been considered dreams of housing reformers ten years ago. The only remaining difficulties were the high price of money and the high cost of building. The bill, in his opinion, was a better bill than the corresponding English bill or the corresponding Scotch bill, which were also passing through Parliament, and every improvement which had been made in the English and Scotch bills had been seized upon, and put to a useful purpose in the Irish bill. There were provisions for getting rid of restrictions on leases, for preventing old houses being made into flats, and for enabling landlords to readily enter into neglected property, and putting that property in order. The new Irish bill enabled local authorities to provide not only houses, but also any other desirable things in connection with houses.

THE SUBSIDY.

With regard to the Irish subsidy, Mr. Cowan said that the first proposal which the Government very carefully considered was that for every £1 of rent collected by the local authorities for the houses built in Ireland, £1 should be contributed by the Government. That meant that a house could be let at half the rent which would be required if no assistance were given by the Government; it would be let at half the rent at which a private individual could let a house without a loss after building. That was an exceedingly attractive proposition in itself, and it went beyond what the Irish Convention sought, and, he thought, beyond the dreams of anyone interested in housing a few years ago; but they had to take into account the increased cost which he had already mentioned. The assistance which the Government was giving was tantamount to giving a loan to local authorities to be considered as repaid by an annual rate of 2 per cent., covering both interest and sinking fund. When the Government was offering them about 5½ per cent. they saw how generous this offer to Ireland really was. The Irish terms did, in fact, constitute an argument for extension of help in the way of State borrowed money.

DUBLIN CORPORATION'S WORK.

The Dublin Corporation, added Mr. Cowan, referring to aid offered to local authorities, had done the finest work in municipal housing in Ireland. The Dublin Corporation, which some people said had many faults, had certainly great virtues; it had been sympathetic, and more clear-sighted than most municipalities. In the Dublin Corporation there had been steady improvement, and he thought that that improvement was likely to continue. Mr. Cowan went on to speak of the aid offered by the agency of utility societies, and explained how such societies could be formed and carried on. Any seven persons and a secretary could form such a society, and obtain help from the Government in such a way that the total cost for capital falling on the society would be only 4 1-5th per cent., representing interest and sinking fund. That, of course, was by no means as liberal as the assistance afforded by local authorities. That system was very hopeful, but the only thing against it was once more the cost of building. In conclusion, Mr. Cowan urged on his hearers the importance of getting into touch with everyone who is interested in the housing question, and of finding the nicest and most economical plans of houses, so that as far as possible the great difficulty that they were in of getting houses might be lessened by a careful selection of plans, a selection which would secure the greatest convenience and ease of working in the house, and at a reasonable cost.

It was stated during the course of a discussion that it was the desire of the Sub-Committee to form a Utility Society, and Mr. Cowan said that he would be glad to come and help the Committee if they so desired.

"PEACE."

A GERMAN'S GREETING.

"LIGHT IN OUR DARKNESS."

The following is a translation of the first paragraph of Herr Maximilian Harden's article on "Peace," which appears in his weekly paper, Die Zukunft, of June 28th. Herr Harden is one of the few Germans whose attitude throughout the war has been consistent. He has been a stout opponent of Prussianism ever since the days of Bismarck, of whom he was a personal friend, and his paper has a wide circulation among cultured Germans of every class. We understand that he is likely to be the first German Ambassador to Washington after the ratification of the Peace Treaty.

"There is a rattle of keys. A lock, hoarse with rust, is creaking; hinges, long unused and unoiled, are groaning. A gust of air throws open the garret window, through whose latticed panes a thin ray of light has been glistening—gray, red, silver, rarely gold—and the dusk and the dawn of the skies can be divined. The hand of the watcher beckons down a dark passage, across a steep flight of steps, on whose loosened stones timid, eager feet, uncertain of the way in their long-worn boots, are pattering through the dusts of years, through the evil stench of the charnel house, out, out into God's fresh air. The sun lies low in the sky; but its rays are strong. It is John the Baptist's Day. Everything still is pervaded with the fresh green hue of spring. A lark shoots up like an arrow, as if to seek her nesting brood among the very stars. The perfume of roses is borne from a purple garden. In the gloam of the evening a boy and a girl are meandering through the fields, in close embrace. They are silent, but in their upturned faces can be read the certainty of imperishable ecstacy. Is that not a nightingale calling to its mate with a passionate sob? All around is the turbulent breath of life. We are out of our cage.

"At last, at last, the world is wide again. Soon we shall be able to travel to the ends of the earth, and soon, in the land of the stranger, we shall see again the rosy glowing cheeks of healthy children, and talk with men and women, whose gaiety is neither hysterical nor depraved. Soon again we shall be able to write letters which will not be eagerly devoured at every frontier by mistrust and suspicion. We shall receive letters which no swarm of spies has read and whose virgin charm, meant only for ourselves, has not been violated by a horde of greedy eyes. For now is peace. Let our devotion drink in the sweetness of the word. Then let us bow our heads before the graves, the sorrows, the wounds, and the sacrifices of body and soul, first of our own stricken people, and then of the human race, to which, as an active member, it is Germany's holiest ambition to belong. Think of the men in whose hearts, to the last throb, lived the burning belief that they were fighting and dying for the most sacred cause. Think of the women, who, never faltering in the pressing duties of their everyday life, cast off their womanhood, and let it harden in the coarsening atmosphere of man's work. Think of the widows; of the sorrowing sweethearts and mothers; of the orphans. Think of all these for whom the flickering flame of hope, which burnt through a mist of pain in the grim necessity of existence, has gone out. Think of the immortal, imperishable achievements of the German people, who shouldered a burden in pious patience, which no nation in the history of the world was ever called upon to bear, until the very backbone of the country gave way. Greet, with all the fires of your souls, our brothers who still are in captivity. To-morrow, only to-morrow, a million German men will be set free. Men and women surprised in far off lands by the war, have seen five summers and five winters come and go, confined behind barbed wire or in the chilly loneliness of exile. Seldom have they heard the echo of a sigh or a sound of sympathy from their homeland. Let our greetings honour every creature who has fought and suffered for Germany; who has undergone torture and privation of body or of soul.

"Let us not be too proud, in our hour of solemn memories, to extend our sympathies even to the sufferings of the animal world, upon which dire necessity heaped burdens of long drawn-out agony. What had the war of men to do with the horses, which were spurred into fire? How did it concern the cattle, starving in arid fields; the dogs, fed on offal; or the wretched cats, pining for a saucer of milk? But the horror of war seized even them, and strangled them with its merciless grip. Now there is light in our darkness. Let us look confidently out. Let our confidence dare to hearken to the sounds of the world. From the unkindly deserts of Northern Siberia, and from the arid plains of distant Australia the wings of the wind and the monsoon are bearing snatches of sound to our ears; they are the sounds of clanking, falling chains. All over the globe keys are rattling, locks are creaking, and freed men are striding out of murky dungeons into the light. A surge of life is breaking madly on the coast of our veins. Out of the clouds, which might have been its grave, mankind is rising towards a new day; for now is peace."

FLEET AT SOUTHEND.

HOLIDAY-MAKERS' GREAT WELCOME.

A VISIT TO AN AEROPLANE SHIP.

A Special Correspondent, telegraphing from Southend last evening, says:—To-day Southend is in the grip of a peaceful Army of Occupation. Fine weather and the British Navy seemed to have been an irresistible attraction to half London. Holiday-makers thronged the beach, blackening the scanty strip of shore until the very water's edge was lost amongst the closely-packed crowds of prostrate idlers and romping children. It is cheerful and good-humoured crowd, which is not too much taken up with the pursuit of pleasure to shirk its duty as acting host to the Fleet. It is a crowd ready to "spoil" the Navy as it had never been spoilt before, and its eagerness to grasp every fleeting opportunity of expressing its gratitude to the guardians of the North Sea sometimes borders on the pathetic.

THE LANDING PARTIES.

Great crowds awaited the landing of the parties, who rushed through the town en route for the peace celebrations in London. At the pierhead the crush and the heat alike were terrific, but, in spite of appearances, there was room enough for the people to expand their lungs for a mighty cheer as each party debarked and marched off to the shore across the back of that somewhat awesome centipede which does duty as a pier. Through the town the sailors marched at "attention," managing to preserve a surprising appearance of coolness in the sweltering heat, and still more wonderful proof against the waving of handkerchiefs and the winning smiles of the women in the crowd. The rear of one party was nearly involved in the struggles of a restless horse, and a Marine officer who jumped to its head won a round of cheers for his promptitude. Then to-day there there was an unofficial outing ashore for the ships' mascots, and a burly marine who paraded the High street with a kitten on his shoulder had to run the guntlet of a hand-clapping crowd.

THE WONDERFUL FURIOUS.

Afloat the Fleet was getting itself ready to receive visitors and putting the finishing touches to schemes of illumination which to-morrow night promises to realise, as closely as it ever will be realised, the old saying of setting the Thames on fire. When he went aboard to-day a special representative of the Press Association surprised the Furious at her peace toilet, and he owes to her Commander's sense of hospitality, and the courteous chaperoning of one of her officers, the unique experience of a thorough tour of this giant Fleet aerodrome. That was the rôle which the Furious fulfilled with the Grand Fleet, and although she came into existence long after the battle of Jutland, she has splendid record of daring and efficiency in war service. Not only did she accompany the Fleet when it put to sea, acting, as it were, as her advanced guard, but she was indulging continuously in exploits on her own part in the Bight of Heligoland, far from her confreres and her bases, and flinging her winged scouts far away into the heavens in the endeavour to pierce the secrets of the enemy by reconnoitring his own coast line.

A DESPERATE VENTURE.

As I stood on her forward launching platform, from which aeroplanes are wont to dive off into the wind, I could not help contrasting her rôle of the moment with that which she sustained exactly a year ago to the very hour. On the 19th July, 1918, there soared upward from that deck seven single-seater bombing machines bent on a life and death undertaking. For some time the operations of the Fleet had been impeded by the German air patrol, which stretched out its feelers along the coast towards Jutland, and eluded the most thorough counter-measures directed against the machines themselves. There remained only the desperate remedy of seeking out the enemy in his lair, and the Furious was entrusted with the task. Seven machines, carrying special bombs of 50lbs. each, were prepared, and they started off in two flights for the enemy aerodrome, which had been located at Tondern, in Schleswig. The first flight caused a complete surprise, and dropped all bombs before the enemy recovered. The second flight, however, had a very warm reception. Six of the machines found the required target, and did enough damage to cool the ardour of the Tondern control for the rest of the war. As an illustration of the desperate nature of these attacks, it may be said that the seven machines were deliberately sacrificed to the success of the enterprise, as it was realised that they had not the remotest chance of returning. The pilots heroically undertook to take their chance, and, fortunately, only one lost his life. Three landed in Denmark and were interned, and the others were picked up by our own small craft who were on the look-out.

AN AEROPLANE SHIP.

The Furious was originally constructed as a light cruiser of a new type. She is a few feet short of 800 feet in length, and her spacious deck and her speed of 33 knots gave her all the requirements for an aeroplane ship, which was badly needed by the Grand Fleet at the time. As such she made her first appearance with the Fleet in the summer of 1917. Her ten-inch guns were taken out from her bridge forward, and a sloping deck not far short of 80 yards long was installed. Down this deck aeroplanes were launched successfully. Later on a similar platform was constructed at the rear for landing parties, but owing to the hot air from the funnels the experiment has not been so successful, and it is now deemed advisable to drop into the sea, to be picked up by torpedo craft. Air bags, which can be inflated under the wings, help the aeroplanes to keep afloat until rescued. Under each of the decks, fore and aft, are large hangars, in which are found aeroplanes of many types. All were in various stages of disintegration in order that they might be stored away in the hangars. Some have the rear end of the fuselage taken off; others have their wings folded back along the body of the machine, like the wings of a dragon fly at rest. The machines, nevertheless, can be sent into the air at a few minutes' notice. They are hoisted to the platform above by a huge lift, and are wheeled forward ready for starting while the next aeroplane is being brought up. The engines are gradually worked up until they are "all out," and the machine, which has hitherto been held in leash, by quick-release mechanism is allowed to dart forward and upwards at a signal. There have been surprisingly few false starts since this method of launching was inaugurated, and what there have been were mainly due to a sudden "bank" after starting, which allowed the tips of the wings to touch the water.

WIRELESS ATTACHMENTS.

Some of the machines are fitted with the latest wireless attachment. The aerial is relieved from a coil of wire, which is set in motion by the observer's left hand; his right hand causes a little propeller to protrude over the right side of the machine, and the necessary power is soon at his command. The key, right in front of the airman's body, is then ready to be depressed, and the message is sent. At each side of the hangar are workshops where engines can be overhauled, and the wings and fabrics of the machines can be repaired or renewed.

THE GUARDIAN "BLIMP."

Three hundred feet above the Furious, at the end of her tether, flew the N.S. 7, the naval scouting airship, which has accompanied the Furious from East Fortune. Her silvery body swinging gently with the breeze has been the object of the greatest interest to the crowds of sightseers in the motor launches and sailing boats which have put off from the shore. When stocks are short the "Blimp" settles right alongside the afterdeck platform of the Furious, where it is made fast, while it takes in whatever stocks are required, such as petrol, provisions, etc. The gas is fed into the envelope of the airship by a hose pipe as thick as a man's body, and it is released from half a dozen at a time of the store of compressed gas cylinders carried on the deck of the warship. When she is gorged to her full the airship can then cast off and become her own master again. Both the Furious and the N.S. 7 are to be illuminated to-morrow night. Only a day or two ago the Furious was flying the flag of Rear-Admiral Sir Richard Phillimore. The ship is one of the roomiest in the Fleet, and not only her own officers and the Flying officers, but her crew and the mechanical staff, are comfortably housed.

FIGHTING IN RUSSIA.

BOLSHEVIK DIVISION DESTROYED.

REPORTED FINNISH DEFEAT.

The Press Association's Special Correspondent, telegraphing from Ekaterinodar on June 30th, says:—In a general attack on Tsaritzin, the southern part of the town has been occupied. Eight thousand prisoners and quantities of guns and machine guns have been captured and a whole Bolshevik division destroyed. The fighting continues. The British and Russian aviators did splendid work. Captain Walsh was wounded.

BOLSHEVIKS AND FINNS.

A Press Association war special message from Stockholm, dated Tuesday, says:—The Helsingfors Correspondent of the Social Democrat reports that the Southern Finnish Army has been completely routed by the Bolsheviks, but the Northern Army, by a hasty retreat, succeeded in saving the greater part of its forces. Volunteer contingents, with artillery, are daily leaving Helsingfors for the front. The Correspondent adds that an American steamer which arrived at Helsingfors last week is said to have in its cargo ten small tanks, 30,000 rifles, and a large quantity of ammunition, which, however, has not yet been unloaded owing to a strike of dock labourers.

THE FIGHTING ON THE DWINA.

The War Office announces:—Archangel—Owing to exceptionally low water in the Dwina little activity is being shown by either side on this front. On the 11th Russian troops carried out a successful raid against the enemy's positions along the banks of the Solemenga River, capturing 166 prisoners and one machine gun, and setting fire to some of the enemy's blockhouses. Many floating mines are being picked up daily on the Dwina.

A Press Association's war special from Archangel yesterday says:—Land operations in this region are still confined to artillery activity and isolated small shows owing to the lack of water in the principal rivers. This is due mainly to the record heat, which is rendering communications most difficult. The gunboats, however, for the past two months have been very active. From the day they left Archangel on May 5, pushing masses of broken ice in front of them, until recently, when the River Dwina was too low to permit the necessary manœuvring, the boats have carried out excellent work in many directions, covering the advance patrols of the military, shelling enemy positions, towing barges, and salving or rendering enemy gunboats ineffective. In many parts of the river the boats must move either straight ahead or straight astern, as it is impossible to turn, while thick woods line both banks. Many actions with enemy gunboats were fought at anchor. We often fired broadsides into both banks, and shelled the enemy gunboats forward during the same action, the military then coming up and occupying the evacuated positions. The large number of enemy dead on these occasions bore excellent testimony to the accuracy of our fire. The enemy altogether has lost six gunboats and gunbarges with 6-inch guns, while many others were badly holed. Our losses have been two mine-sweepers. In the last engagement a few days ago the enemy gunboats approached to within 9,000 yards of our positions under cover of a haze, and lay up under the bank. Then one boat poked her nose round the corner, and received almost immediately a direct hit from our biggest guns. All the enemy gunboats then retired precipitately.

MASSACRES IN PETROGRAD.

A Reuter's telegram from Helsingfors of yesterday says:—Almost every day the Petrograd newspapers publish lists of persons, generally numbering from 50 to 100, who have been shot on varied pretexts. One person, for example, was executed for having published verses decrying the Soviet Government, while a general, aged 70, was summarily despatched for no other reason than that of having a trophy of arms in his room as a decoration. All the keepers of diplomatic archives at the Foreign Legations also appear in the list.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

IRISH PLOT-HOLDERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—The point at issue is whether or not Mr. Donnelly is correct in saying that the plot scheme has not cost the ratepayers a penny. Mr. Donnelly evades this issue by referring me to Corporation breviates, but he cannot truly answer the question. As he has not done so, may I ask him how plots let under £7 per acre, including taxes, will pay for land costing the Corporation Land Cultivation Committee anything between £25 and £35 per acre, when all is said and done?

It is true that an inquiry was held, and the responsibility which the Committee were undertaking was pointed out. The lands of Croydon Park, among others, were given on the condition that the Committee paid the rent which the lands then brought, that they paid taxes assessed (in full and not one-fourth valuation), maintained fences, ditches, roads, etc., and handed back, at the end of the tenancy, the lands in the same condition as taken over—i.e., lands in lawns and pasture, now broken up into plots, making impossible the letting of a large residence, carrying a £66 valuation. This alone means a loss to the Corporation of about £60 a year in rates, while the plot-holders refuse admission by keeping the gates rigidly locked, supplying keys to the plot-holders.

May I further ask Mr. Donnelly to state the loss incurred by the Corporation Marino Scheme adjoining Croydon Park, and also ask him if the motto of the workers—"Every man to his trade"—justifies the workers in ousting market-gardeners, cattle-salesmen, dairymen, and sports' committees from carrying on their legitimate trades, to provide plot-holders, earning their living by other means, with land at a mere fraction of its value to grow cabbages (I was not aware that the Recorder knew the retail price) sold up to 6d. each? We hear a lot from workers about "profiteering." Further, can Mr. Donnelly justify the taking of certain other lands and offering as rent less than the actual charges payable by the owner, thus depriving him of his income.—Yours, etc.,

T. PICTON BRADSHAW.

Clontarf, July 17th, 1919.

VICTIMS OF AIR RAIDS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Will you, through the medium of your widely read paper, allow me to make an appeal for some of the poor mothers and children in a city parish who have suffered in the London air raids? Many of them are Irish. They ask for one whole day in the country, in this year of Peace. We want to give them this, and also to assist them in sending their children to the country for a longer period. Perhaps, some mothers in Ireland, who have had no fears for the safety of their little ones during those many anxious nights, will remember us. Expenses of food and transit have so much increased that we are obliged to appeal for help. Subscriptions will be gratefully received and acknowledged by the Managers of St. Mark's Schools, or by Mrs. Stanford Robinson, St. Mark's Vicarage, Old street, London, E.C. 2.—Yours, etc.,

ZOE ROBINSON.

ST. STEPHEN'S GREEN METHODIST CHURCH.

The Services in St. Stephen's Green Methodist Church, Dublin, to-morrow will be conducted by the Rev. James Grubb. The subject of the morning sermon will be "The Song of the Heart's True Home." In the evening Mr. Grubb will preach on "The Inspiration of Heaven's Highest Joy." The church is centrally situated, and visitors to the city are cordially invited to attend.

METHODIST CHURCH AND TEMPERANCE.

At the Methodist Conference at Newcastle yesterday an animated debate took place on a motion by Mr. Walter Runciman, that it was the duty of Christians to set an example of personal abstinence from intoxicating drink as beverages. There was considerable objection to the imposition of total abstinence on all as a condition of belonging to the Methodist Church. This interpretation was denied by some members. One delegate expressed the view that it was setting the dogs on a lot of honourable folk. Eventually it was resolved that in the present distress it was a duty to abstain.

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT.

CARRIER PIGEON.—A dead carrier pigeon has been found in the garden of 5 Belgrave square, Monkstown, with a rubber ring on the left leg marked 850, and a metal ring on the right leg numbered 5851 U.F. 19.

EXCURSIONISTS' ARRIVAL IN DUBLIN.—The largest invasion of Dublin by holiday-makers from across the Channel since 1914 took place yesterday by the Burns Line steamer Vulture. The vessel was specially put on for the trip, and it appears that for half the night previous to her sailing from the Clyde intending passengers were camped in the sheds or stores alongside the steamer, so as to get the first chance of securing room on board. The Vulture carried some 900 people to Dublin, this being the full number allowed according to present restrictions, and when taking her departure from the Clyde it was estimated that another 900 or more Fair Week holiday folk had to be left behind for the next steamer. Up to yesterday about 2,000 visitors from Glasgow and Clydeside district had crossed to Dublin during the present week.

DONATION FOR COURT POOR BOX.—When summoned in the Southern Police Court yesterday before Mr. Swifte, K.C., for failing to register a motor car, and for using a false identification plate, Mr. Frederick Guinness, Chesterfield, Blackrock, stated that he overlooked the registration, and Mr. Swifte said that, on the defendant undertaking to contribute 10/- to the court poor box, he would mark the case "cautioned." Mr. Guinness at once paid the 10/- into the poor box. Mr. J. W. Davis, solicitor, prosecuted.

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

RELAPSE IN TEXTILES, BUT DYERS GOOD. SHELLS LOWER.

The week-end market on 'Change indicated a tendency to realise in some securities after the recent exceptional buoyancy, while in other directions operators and investors still supported prices in a confident manner. The Funds were still easier. Banks held firm, with Nationals bid up fractionally. Munster and Leinster "Letters" again gave way, but closed more settled. Breweries were quiet. Marconi Shares gave way in answer to London prices the previous day in London. Home Rails were quietly irregular, with bidding again for "Cashel" Stock. City Steam closed firm. In the Textile group sales to secure profits caused a smart relapse in Coats, Cottons, and Spinners, but Dyers were good on Manchester buying orders. Imperial Tobacco rose further, but Oil Shares were realised at lower levels.

It is interesting to learn that the Telegraph Office in the Stock Exchange buildings will be re-opened for the first time since the war on Monday, 21st inst., from 9.30 a.m. to 5.30 p.m.

In the Funds, War Loan 5 p.c. fell 1/16 to 94½, and Consols ⅛ to 51⅛. Exchequer 5 p.c. 1920 marked 100⅛.

In Banks, Nationals rose ½ to 21, while Munster and Leinster Letters realised 12s. 6d., 11s., 11s. 6d., and Hibernians were firm at 6⅞.

Breweries, etc., show no change. Castlebellingham Ord. repeated 5¼. Guinness Ord. 38¼, and the Pref. 11¼.

Dealing in Marconis was confined to the Ord., which fell 3/16 to 5⅛.

In Home Rails, Great Southern and Western Ord. rose ½ more to 77, and the Pref. realised 71½. Midland Great Western declined ½ to 30½.

As regards Trams, Dublin United Pref. were nominally ⅛ higher at 10½.

In Drapery shares, Cannocks rose to 7¼, and Todd Burns Pref. to 90s.

Among Dunlops, Dunlop Rubber Ord. were harder at 8, 8 5/32.

As regards Manufacturing shares, Textiles were pressed for sale to secure profits. Calicos fell 6d. to 20s. 3d., Coats Ord. 9/32 to 9¾, 11/16, Cottons 1s. to 104s. 6d., and Spinners 2s. to 50s., while Bradford Dyers rose 2s. 6d. to 45s. 6d., 46s. The latter did not participate in the recent upward movement in this group. Gouldings repeated 8¼, Vickers fell 6d. to 35s. 6d., and White Tomkins about 2s. to 27s. 6d.

Trading shares were idle.

In other business done, Imperial Tobacco rose 1s. 6d. to 106s. 6d., and Canadians 9d. to 29s. 3d., 29s. 6d., 29s. 9d. Shells relapsed to 7 11/32, 7/32. Mexican Eagles were on sale, but did not quote.

LONDON STOCKS DULL.

BUSINESS LIMITED.

Week-end conditions on the Stock Exchange were intensified by the holiday atmosphere bred of the peace celebrations. Business was limited, and the general tone of markets languid and dull, though there was some sign of improvement towards the finish, when underlying firmness appeared disposed to reassert itself. The American exchange situation engenders a sense of marked caution regarding the general financial outlook, and it was generally hoped that the reports of important measures to stabilise the exchange will prove to be well based. The Labour situation also still makes for caution, though it is less immediately disturbing than was recently the case, apart from the North-Eastern Railway strike. Gilt-edged issues were quiet. War Fives, however, finally added 1/16, and Consols at 51⅛ were ⅛ better. Miscellaneous gilt-edged securities were hesitating, but with the leaders of the market they were inclined to go better at the finish, reflecting the late American exchange improvement. Indian Government issues, however, hung fire, and were inclined to weaken.

Changes:—Rises—Consols, ⅛ to 51⅛; 5 per cent. War Loan, 1/16 to 94 9/16; Australian Com. (1922-27), ½ to 101; New South Wales 4½ p.c., 1 to 93; South African 4 p.c., 1 to 82; South Australian 5 p.c., 1 to 99. Falls—3½ per cent. War Loan, ¼ to 87½; Canada 4 p.c., ¼ to 80¼.

FOREIGN BONDS STRONGER.—In the Foreign market the downward movement in French Loans was checked, but quotations lacked rallying power. There was quiet investment support for Japanese Loans, and Chinese Bonds were occasionally a point up. Greeks were dull. Peruvians met light realising after the recent sharp rise, and the Ord. at 7¼ was finally ¼ down.

Changes:—Rises—Chinese Fives (1896), 1 to 91; Spanish Fours, 1 to 95½. Fall—Peruvian Corp., ¼ to 7¼.

RAILS SPOTTY.—In the Home Railway market, the Midland dividend was announced at the rate of 1½ per cent., actual; the same as a year ago. The market was unaffected. Quotations recorded little net change. There was some early hesitancy, but North-Easterns were unchanged. Great Westerns added ¼ at 84¼. Passenger Stocks marked time. Scotch Stocks ruled hard, and North British Pref. rallied ¼ to 38¼.

"Canpacs" at 190 were down, influenced by the lower American exchange, but Grand Trunks showed a harder tone, and the 3rd Preference gained ½ at 21½. Mexican Rails continued their advance, on the prospects of increased American financial support for Mexico. Argentine Rails lacked support, and drooped ¼ to ½ where they varied. Antofagasta Def. at 121 lost another point, and United of Havana at 79 was easier.

Changes:—Rises—Great Western, ¼ to 84¼; Missouri, 1¼ to 15; Grand Trunk 3rd Pref., ½ to 21½; Mexican Rails, 1½ to 23½; do. 2nd Pref., 1 to 37¼. Falls—Underground Ord., ¼ to 5¼; Denver, 1 to 12; do. Pref., 1 to 22; Ontario, 1 to 26; Canadian Pacific, 2 to 190; Antofagasta Def., 1 to 121; B.A. Great Southern, ½ to 65; Central Argentine, ½ to 54½; Entre Rios Pref., 1½ to 73½; United Havana, ½ to 79.

INDUSTRIALS ANIMATED.—In the Miscellaneous and Industrial market Textiles were again very animated, but boiled over in the afternoon. Coats closed ¼ down at 9¾, though dividend and bonus forecasts remain very hopeful. Spinners drooped to 49/3 on realising. Courtaulds were firmer at 10 7/16 on the increased interim dividend. Listers closed at 51/3. The Shipping group was irregular. P. and O. Def. marked up to 522, but Furness Withys, at 5¼, were ¼ down. Bank Shares traded forward on the prospect of dearer money in the approaching autumn. Marconis were harder, reflecting a more hopeful feeling regarding the outcome of the claim against the Government, the hearing of which has now been practically concluded. The Ord. rose ⅛ to 5⅛, and the Pref., at 4½, was 1/16 up. Breweries were still off-colour. Cements were wanted, Associated Ord. being up to 8¼. The Land group ruled slow, but Sudans rallied to 7½. Catering Shares were dull, and Liptons eased to 31/-. Imperial Tobaccos reacted 1/- to 105/- on light realising. British Americans were much quieter around 6⅜.

Changes:—Rises—Anglo-Egyptian Bank, ½ to 18; Anglo-South American Bank, ¼ to 10¼; Bank of Australia, 2 to 139; Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, 1 to 108; Marconi, ⅛ to 5⅛; do. Pref., 1/16 to 4½; Associated Cement, 1/16 to 8¼; Anglo-Argentine Tram Pref., 1/16 to 3¼. Falls—Bank of New South Wales, 1 to 36; National Provincial Bank (£12), 1 to 30½; Coats, ¼ to 9¾; Furness Withy, ¼ to 5¼; Imperial Tobacco, 1/- to 105/-; Lipton, 6d. to 31/-; Guinness Pref., 4 to 112½; Brit. Col. Elec. Rail Deb., ¼ to 60½.

MINING MARKET SUPPORTED.—The Mining Market was only moderately brisk, but there was fair support for specialities. The strength of Mexican descriptions was again a feature in connection with the reports of increased American financial facilities for Mexico. Santa Gertrudis led the improvement in this group, while El Oros were also good. Kaffirs kept in the background, but had a stable improvement. Chartereds again met buying among Rhodesians, and forecasts of next week's meeting are hopeful. The closing down at Kalgurlis reacted adversely upon Westralians, and Siberians still drooped. The base metal group showed cheerfulness in places. Copper metal was unchanged, but tin recovered 65/- per ton.

RUBBER SHARES UNINTERESTING.—In common with the rest of the markets round the house, a holiday feeling enveloped the Rubber section, and there were few items of interest to record. Rubber itself appears to be making an effort to reach the 2/- mark, being quoted at 1/11 per lb. Anglo-Dutch were firm around 50/-, with a fair business near that figure. Bah Lias were buyers, while the letters were bid for at 4/-. Bekoh were the turn lower at 4/3, as were Bukit Panjong at 10/3. Bukit Sembawang were steady around 2/10½. There were buyers of Djasinga at 26/3. Highlands were a shade easier at 51/9, but Java Investment were 38/4½ buyers. K.M.S. slipped back to 28/-, and Ledbury were no better than 48/9. Malayalam were about 41/3, and a considerable number of Marawan were taken off the market, with sellers at about 35/1½, and Straits Bertam were slightly easier. A considerable business in these shares was done. Tandjongs were offered at 5 1/16. Tamiang changed hands around 37/6, and United Serdangs were dull at 13/1½, while Waverley were better at 6/10½ bid. There was little to report in the Borneo section. Membakut were better, with transactions around 26/6, but Sapong were offered under 35/-. Sablas were a dull market, with sellers around £4.

OIL SHARES HARDER.

During the first part of the day the decline in Oil Shares continued, but resistance increased towards the finish, and the tendency hardened, conditions having clearly improved through the shake-out. The course of the market was clearly reflected in "Gyppy B," which closed 1/16 up to 5¾, after being 5 11/16. Shells dipped and recovered, closing unaltered at 7⅛. Burmahs at 11⅞ were unchanged. Mexican Eagles closed at 8⅝, after being 8½. Other changes were usually narrowly adverse on the day. Closing prices:—

THE MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed April 5th, 1917) 5 p.c.

The Money Market was steady, but not very brisk, though many interesting discussions were in progress relative to the foreign exchange position and particularly in regard to the American exchange. It is thought likely that [illegible] rates for foreign funds here will shortly be allowed again, but that general control of, and fixed rates for, deposits will be brought to an end. Call money fetched 3 p.c., and there were some small balances at 3½ p.c. The Discount market was hard without material change. Two months' drafts were passed at 3⅝ to 3¾ p.c., three months at 3¾ to 3⅝ p.c., and six months at 4 p.c.

Bar Silver remained at 54½d. and forward metal at 54¼d. per oz.

There was a sharp recovery of about 10 points in the New York Exchange, which gave colour to the reports of special measures to stabilise the quotation.

The following foreign exchange rates were current:—New York cables, 4.38 to 4.40; Paris, 30.95 to 31.15; Amsterdam, 11.69 to 11.72; Italy, 37.70 to [illegible]; Madrid, 22.85 to 22.92; Christiania, [illegible]; Stockholm, 17.79 to 17.84; [illegible] 62.00; Berne, 24.90 to 24.95; Rio, [illegible]; Buenos Ayres, [illegible].

ST. STEPHEN'S GREEN METHODIST CHURCH.

The Services in St. Stephen's Green Methodist Church, Dublin, to-morrow will be conducted by the Rev. James Grubb. The subject of the morning sermon will be "The Song of the Heart's True Home." In the evening Mr. Grubb will preach on "The Inspiration of Heaven's Highest Joy." The church is centrally situated, and visitors to the city are cordially invited to attend.

METHODIST CHURCH AND TEMPERANCE.

At the Methodist Conference at Newcastle yesterday an animated debate took place on a motion by Mr. Walter Runciman, that it was the duty of Christians to set an example of personal abstinence from intoxicating drink as beverages. There was considerable objection to the imposition of total abstinence on all as a condition of belonging to the Methodist Church. This interpretation was denied by some members. One delegate expressed the view that it was setting the dogs on a lot of honourable folk. Eventually it was resolved that in the present distress it was a duty to abstain.

CARRIER PIGEON.—A dead carrier pigeon has been found in the garden of 5 Belgrave square, Monkstown, with a rubber ring on the left leg marked 850, and a metal ring on the right leg numbered 3851 U.F. 19.

EXCURSIONISTS' ARRIVAL IN DUBLIN.—The largest invasion of Dublin by holiday-makers from across the Channel since 1914 took place yesterday by the Burns line steamer Vulture. This vessel was specially put on for the trip, and it appears that for half the night previous to her sailing from the Clyde intending passengers were camped in the sheds or stores alongside the steamer, so as to get the first chance of securing room on board. The Vulture carried some 900 people to Dublin, this being the full number allowed according to present restrictions, and when taking her departure from the Clyde it was estimated that another 900 or more Fair Week holiday folk had to be left behind for the next steamer. Up to yesterday about 2,000 visitors from Glasgow and Clydeside districts had crossed to Dublin during the present week.

DONATION FOR COURT POOR BOX.—When summoned in the Southern Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Swifte, K.C., for failing to register a motor car, and for using a false identification plate, Mr. Frederick Guinness, Chesterfield, Blackrock, stated that he overlooked the registration, and Mr. Swifte said that, on the defendant undertaking to contribute 10/- to the court poor box, he would mark the case "cautioned." Mr. Guinness at once paid the 10/- into the poor box. Mr. J. W. Davis, solicitor, prosecuted.

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

RELAPSE IN TEXTILES, BUT DYERS GOOD. SHELLS LOWER.

The week-end market on 'Change indicated a tendency to realise in some securities after the recent exceptional buoyancy, while in other directions operators and investors still supported prices in a confident manner. The Funds were still easier. Banks held firm, with Nationals bid up fractionally. Munster and Leinster "Letters" again gave way, but closed more settled. Breweries were quiet. Marconi Shares gave way in answer to London prices the previous day in London. Home Rails were quietly irregular, with bidding again for "Cashel" Stock. City Steam closed firm. In the Textile group sales to secure profits caused a smart relapse in Coats, Cottons, and Spinners, but Dyers were good on Manchester buying orders. Imperial Tobacco rose further, but Oil Shares were realised at lower levels.

It is interesting to learn that the Telegraph Office in the Stock Exchange buildings will be re-opened for the first time since the war on Monday, 21st inst., from 9.30 a.m. to 5.30 p.m.

In the Funds, War Loan 5 p.c. fell 1/16 to 94⅝, and Consols ⅛ to 51⅝. Exchequer 5 p.c. 1920 marked 100¼.

In Banks, Nationals rose ¼ to 21, while Munster and Leinster Letters realised 12s. 6d., 11s., 11s. 6d., and Hibernians were firm at 6 7/16.

Breweries, etc., show no change. Castlebellingham Ord. repeated 5¾. Guinness Ord. 38¼, and the Pref. 11¼.

Dealing in Marconis was confined to the Ord., which fell 3/16 to 5⅝.

In Home Rails, Great Southern and Western Ord. rose ½ more to 77, and the Pref. realised 71½. Midland Great Western declined ½ to 30½.

As regards Trams, Dublin United Pref. were nominally ¼ higher at 10½.

In Drapery shares, Cannocks rose to 7¼, and Todd Burns Pref. to 90s.

Among Dunlops, Dunlop Rubber Ord. were harder at 8, 8 1/32.

As regards Manufacturing shares, Textiles were pressed for sale to secure profits. Calicos fell 6d. to 20s. 3d., Coats Ord. 3/32 to 9⅜, 11/16, Cottons 1s. to 104s. 6d., and Spinners 2s. to 50s., while Bradford Dyers rose 2s. 6d. to 45s. 6d., 46s. The latter did not participate in the recent upward movement in this group. Gouldings repeated 8¼. Vickers fell 6d. to 35s. 6d., and White Tomkins about 2s. to 27s. 6d.

Trading shares were idle.

In other business done, Imperial Tobacco rose 2s. 6d. to 106s. 6d., and Canadians 9d. to 29s. 3d., 29s. 6d., 29s. 9d. Shells relapsed to 7 21/32, 11/16. Mexican Eagles were on sale, but did not quote.

LONDON STOCKS DULL.

BUSINESS LIMITED.

Week-end conditions on the Stock Exchange were intensified by the holiday atmosphere bred of the peace celebrations. Business was limited, and the general tone of markets languid and dull, though there was some sign of improvement towards the finish, when underlying firmness appeared disposed to reassert itself. The American exchange situation engenders a sense of marked caution regarding the general financial outlook, and it was generally hoped that the reports of important measures to stabilise the exchange will prove to be well based. The Labour situation also still makes for caution, though it is less immediately disturbing than was recently the case, apart from the North-Eastern Railway strike. Gilt-edged issues were quiet. War Fives, however, finally added 1/16, and Consols at 51⅜ were ⅛ better. Miscellaneous gilt-edged securities were hesitating, but with the leaders of the market they were inclined to go better at the finish, reflecting the late American exchange improvement. Indian Government issues, however, hung fire, and were inclined to weaken.

Changes:—Rises—Consols, ⅛ to 51⅜; 5 per cent. War Loan, 1/16 to 94 9/16; Australian Com. (1922-27), ½ to 101; New South Wales 4½ p.c., 1 to 93; South African 4 p.c., 1 to 82; South Australian 5 p.c., 1 to 99. Falls—3½ per cent. War Loan, ¼ to 87¼; Canada 4 p.c., ½ to 80¼.

FOREIGN BONDS STRONGER.—In the Foreign market the downward movement in French Loans was checked, but quotations lacked rallying power. There was quiet investment support for Japanese Loans, and Chinese Bonds were occasionally a point up. Greeks were dull. Peruvians met light realising after the recent sharp rise, and the Ord. at 7¼ was finally ¼ down.

Changes:—Rises—Chinese Fives (1896), 1 to 91; Spanish Fours, 1 to 95½. Fall—Peruvian Corp., ¼ to 7¼.

RAILS SPOTTY.—In the Home Railway market, the Midland dividend was announced at the rate of 1½ per cent., actual; the same as a year ago. The market was unaffected. Quotations recorded little net change. There was some early hesitancy, but North-Easterns were unchanged. Great Westerns added ½ at 84½. Passenger Stocks marked time. Scotch Stocks ruled hard, and North British Pref. rallied ½ to 38½.

"Canpacs" at 190 were down, influenced by the lower American exchange, but Grand Trunks showed a harder tone, and the 3rd Preference gained ½ at 21½. Mexican Rails continued their advance on the prospects of increased American financial support for Mexico. Argentine Rails lacked support, and drooped ½ to ¾ where they varied. Antofagasta Def. at 121 lost another point, and United of Havana at 79 was easier.

Changes:—Rises—Great Western, ½ to 84½; Missouri, 1½ to 15; Grand Trunk 3rd Pref., ½ to 21½; Mexican Rails, 1½ to 23½; do. 2nd Pref., 1 to 37½. Falls—Underground Ord., ¼ to 3¼; Denver, 1 to 12; do. Pref., 1 to 22; Ontario, 1 to 26; Canadian Pacific, 2 to 190; Antofagasta Def., 1 to 121; B.A. Great Southern, ½ to 65; Central Argentine, ½ to 54½; Entre Rios Pref., 1½ to 73½; United Havana, ½ to 79.

INDUSTRIALS ANIMATED.—In the Miscellaneous and Industrial market Textiles were again very animated, but boiled over in the afternoon. Coats closed ¼ down at 9¼, though dividend and bonus forecasts remain very hopeful. Spinners drooped to 49/3 on realising. Courtaulds were firmer at 10⅝ on the increased interim dividend. Lesters closed at 51/3. The Shipping group was irregular. P. and O. Def. marked up to 522, but Furness Withys, at 5¼, were ⅛ down. Bank Shares tended forward on the prospect of dearer money in the approaching autumn. Marconis were harder, reflecting a more hopeful feeling regarding the outcome of the claim against the Government, the hearing of which has now been practically concluded. The Ord. rose ⅛ to 5 7/16, and the Pref., at 4½, was 1/16 up. Breweries were still off-colour. Cements were wanted, Associated Ord. being up to 8¼. The Land group raided slow, but Sudans rallied to 7 13/16. Catering Shares were dull, and Liptons eased to 31/-. Imperial Tobaccos reacted 1/- to 105/- on light realising. British Americans were much quieter around 6 1/16.

Changes:—Rises—Anglo-Egyptian Bank, ½ to 18; Anglo-South American Bank, ½ to 10½; Bank of Australia, 2 to 138; Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, 1 to 108; Marconi, ⅛ to 5 7/16; do. Pref., 1/16 to 4½; Associated Cement, 1/16 to 8¼; Anglo-Argentine Tram Pref., 1/16 to 3¼. Falls—Bank of New South Wales, 1 to 36; National Provincial Bank (£12), 1 to 30½; Coats, ¼ to 9¼; Furness Withy, ⅛ to 5¼; Imperial Tobacco, 1/- to 105/-; Lipton, 6d. to 31/-; Guinness Pref., 4 to 112½; Brit. Col. Elec. Rail Deb., ½ to 60½.

MINING MARKET SUPPORTED.—The Mining Market was only moderately brisk, but there was fair support for specialities. The strength of Mexican descriptions was again a feature in connection with the reports of increased American financial facilities for Mexico. Santa Gertrudis led the improvement in this group, while El Oros were also good. Kaffirs kept in the background, but had a stable improvement. Chartereds again met buying among Rhodesians, and forecasts of next week's meeting are hopeful. The closing down at Kalgurlis reacted adversely upon Westralians, and Siberians still drooped. The base metal group showed cheerfulness in places. Copper metal was unchanged, but tin recovered 65/- per ton.

RUBBER SHARES UNINTERESTING.—In common with the rest of the markets round the house, a holiday feeling enveloped the Rubber section, and there were few items of interest to record. Rubber itself appears to be making an effort to reach the 2/- mark, being quoted at 1/11 per lb. Anglo-Dutch were firm around 50/-, with a fair business near that figure. Bah Lias were buyers, while the letters were bid for at 4/-. Bekoh were the turn lower at 4/3, as were Bukit Panjong at 10/3. Bukit Sembawang were steady around 2/10½. There were buyers of Djasinga at 26/3. Highlands were a shade easier at 31/9, but Java Investment were 38/4½ buyers. K.M.S. slipped back to 28/-, and Ledbury were no better than 48/9. Malayalam were about 41/3, and a considerable number of Marawan were taken off the market, with sellers at about 35/1½, and Straits Bertam were slightly easier. A considerable business in these shares was done. Tandjongs were offered at 3⅛. Tamiang changed hands around 37/6, and United Serdangs were dull at 13/1½, while Waverley were better at 6/10½ bid. There was little to report in the Borneo section. Membakut were better, with transactions around 26/6, but Sapong were offered under 35/-. Sablas were a dull market, with sellers around £1.

OIL SHARES HARDER.

During the first part of the day the decline in Oil Shares continued, but resistance increased towards the finish, and the tendency hardened, conditions having clearly improved through the shake-out. The course of the market was clearly reflected in "Gyppy B," which closed 3/16 up to 5⅞, after being 5 9/16. Shells dipped and recovered, closing unaltered at 7 11/16. Burmahs at 11⅞ were unchanged. Mexican Eagles closed at 8¼, after being 8⅝. Other changes were usually narrowly adverse on the day. Closing prices:—

THE MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed April 5th, 1917) ......5 p.c.

The Money Market was steady, but not very brisk, though many interesting discussions were in progress relative to the foreign exchange position, and particularly in regard to the American exchange. It is thought likely that preferential rates for foreign funds here will shortly be allowed again, but that general control of, and fixed rates for, deposits will be brought to an end. Call money fetched 3 p.c., and there were some small balances at 3½ p.c. The Discount market was hard, without material change. Two months' drafts were posted at 3⅝ to 3 11/16 p.c., three months at 3¾ to 3 13/16 p.c., and six months at 4 p.c.

Spot Silver remained at 54½d. and forward metal at 54⅜d. per oz.

There was a sharp recovery of about 10 points in the New York Exchange, which gave colour to the reports of special measures to stabilise the quotation.

The following foreign exchange rates were current:—New York cables, 4.38 to 4.40; Paris, 30.85 to 31.15; Amsterdam, 11.69 to 11.72; Italy, 37.70 to 37.80; Madrid, 22.85 to 22.92; Christiania, 18.55 to 18.65; Stockholm, 17.79 to 17.85; Finland, 61.00 to 62.00; Berne, 24.90 to 24.95; Rio, 90-day bills, 14 11/16d.; Buenos Ayres transfers, 52½d. to 53d.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

It is interesting to know that a letter has been received by the Spies Petroleum Company from the London manager in Grosny regarding the state of affairs there. The previous instruction that the property is practically intact has been confirmed, and it is reported that contracts have been concluded for the sale of 4,600,000 poods of oil for delivery up to December 31st next. This, at an average price of 4.07 roubles per pood, will realise a total of 18,750,000 roubles. The present average production per day is about 8,500 poods, which, in the opinion of the oil manager can be considerably increased in a short time.

The Victory Loan is certainly a success—not the success anticipated by some, but quite up to the expectations of high financial authorities. It is a pity that more longer-dated securities were not converted, but these were so attractive in themselves that holders may be excused for keeping them.

Next week the public will have an opportunity of subscribing for an issue of £600,000 6 per cent. Debenture Stock at par by Lipton, Limited. Proceeds of this capital will be used to meet the increasing business of the company. The prospectus will show that the average net profits for the past three years cover the Debenture interest, including the present issue six times.

Early next week one million 7 per cent. "C" Cumulative Preference Shares of £1 each in Van Den Bergh's, Limited, will be offered for sale at 21/-, on behalf of the Imperial and Foreign Corporation, Limited. The present issue brings the total authorised and issued capital of this well-known company (which was formed as a limited liability company in 1895) to £3,075,000. Recent distributions upon the Ordinary Share capital of £625,000 have been—for 1916, 30 per cent.; 1917, 20 per cent.; and for 1918—30 per cent.

A circular has been issued by Messrs. Tweedale, Sons, and Lees (solicitors, of Oldham) offering £10 2/6 per share for the £3 shares, 5/- paid, of the Pear New Mill, Ltd., Stockport, which has about 138,000 spindles. There are 30,000 £3 shares, with 5/- paid up. The shareholders have received dividends since the formation (about four years ago) of 25 per cent. a year, in addition to cash bonuses.

MEETING OF IRISH FARMERS' UNION.

Mr. R. A. Butler presided at a meeting of the National Executive of the Irish Farmers' Union, held in Dublin yesterday. There was a large attendance, every county in the Union being represented.

Colonel Loftus Bryan (Wexford) reported on the conference which had taken place in Cardiff between the Irish Farmers' Union and the Farmers' Unions of England and Scotland.

A committee was appointed to investigate Income Tax matters concerning farmers, and to submit evidence before the Royal Commission on Income Tax. A resolution was passed deprecating the failure of the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction to give satisfactory replies with reference to the constitution of the Council of Agriculture, the Agricultural Wages Board, and the detention of lambs for ten hours at the ports of landing. Mr. M. F. O'Hanlon reported that it had been arranged to confer with representatives of the Ulster counties at Belfast on the 25th inst. It was stated that the union had acquired new premises in Dublin.

The steps taken in the labour disputes by the County Kildare and County Meath Branches were approved. A representative from the Ministry of Labour asked for the co-operation of farmers in making the Ministry Exchanges of greater service. It was decided that farmers had nothing to gain by any scheme suggested.

AUCTION SALES.

Messrs. MacArthur.

Messrs. MacArthur publish in our advertising columns to-day a list of 29 houses in various parts of the city and county sold this week through their agency. On next Friday, 25th July, the lots for disposal include:—Detached residence, "Roseville," Richmond avenue, Fairview; "Myrtle Lodge," Richmond avenue; newly built business premises, 51a Prussia street; "Beechview House," The Hill, Glasnevin; two houses, 207 and 247 Clonliffe road, for sale separately, and other property.

Mr. Holden's Auction.

On next Wednesday Mr. Holden will offer for sale "The Poplars," Dunville avenue. There is a very large fruit garden attached, and immediate possession of the entire will be given the purchaser. On the same day Nos. 22, 23, and 25 Dunville avenue will be sold in separate lots. All the four lots are held for ever, free of rent. Another property for sale on Wednesday consists of the seaside residence, "Aliceville," Dublin road, Sutton. Immediate possession will be given. No. 76 Harcourt street, which was advertised for next Wednesday's auction, has been sold privately by Mr. Holden.

PUBLIC AUCTION OF MOTORS.

McGann and McGann, auctioneers, 77 Queen street, announce the sale by auction at 16 Princes street (beside old G.P.O.), on Tuesday next, of a large, high-class selection of motor cars, motor vans, motor lorries, motor bicycles, and bicycles. This firm is making a speciality of this class of auction, having previously had two or three record sales. The motors, etc., will be on view on Monday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

PLATFORM AND STAGE.

Mr. D. W. Griffith's picture, "Hearts of the World," will be shown in the Gaiety Theatre during the week, commencing on Monday next, and at matinées at 2.30 o'clock on Wednesday and Saturday. It is announced that it will be presented exactly as shown at Windsor Castle before Their Majesties, the King and Queen. "Hearts of the World" is said to contain the most wonderful pictures of war which have ever been photographed, and is mainly a thrilling love story, in which the hero and heroine emerge triumphant from adventures and perils.

Fred Karno is to present his "absurdity," entitled "Moonstruck," in the Theatre Royal Hippodrome next week. The piece consists of three scenes by Fred Karno, John Gerant, and W. H. Briggs; and Will Hay, Frank Harmer, and Ennis Parkes are prominent parts in it. Harold Moss, the Norfolk Gipsy violinist, and Isabel Maachah, danseuse, have been engaged to appear in a musical fantasy, and the following names are also on the programme:—Garadini, the actor musician; The Gibbon Duo, humorist and trick pianist; Bendon and Cameron, vocal comedy duo; and Jack Edwin, comedian.

The bill for the Tivoli Theatre next week is headed by the Phil Ascot Four, who will present novel dance numbers. It includes in addition to them, Florrie Ramsay, comedienne and dancer; the Collins Trio, novelty entertainers; Ben Yorke, parody comedian; Ryde and Wynne, acrobats; Jean Fargo, mezzo-soprano, from Queen's Hall, London; Bob Merry, comedian; and Walton and Lester, in a burlesque creation.

The Abbey Theatre will re-open on Monday, 4th August, with a production of "Brady," a new two-act comedy of Dublin life, by Mrs. S. Casey.

The Daily Mirror Beauties, who have been appearing in the Empire Theatre, will continue their visit during next week. Another attraction is the Lawrence Wright ensemble in a new repertoire of ballads from the pen of Horatio Nicholls, including the ballad, "The Kingdom Within Your Eyes." The principals are—Miss Kathleen Grahame, Miss Elizabeth Hyde, Mr. Albert Whitehall, and Mr. Darroll Richards. M'Donagh and Russell will be seen in a sketch entitled "Murphy's Wife," and Shaun O'Farrell will contribute Irish songs. The "Irish Beauties" competition finds a place in the programme.

In the Queen's Theatre next week, Mr. C. Stewart McQuaile will present Dion Boucicault's Irish drama, "The Shaughraun." The cast includes:—C. Stewart M'Quaile, Barry MacDunphy, L. P. Quayle, Tom J. Powell, M. E. O'Neill, Michael Gibson, Wm. Eustace Moulton, Thomas Rogers, M. Leahy, Paul M'Kay, P. O'Regan, Marie Boucher, Lena Pembroke, Kit Casserley, Winnie Atkinson, and A. Farquharson.

THE FRENCH STAGE.

LATTER-DAY TENDENCIES.

The future of the French theatre worries Frenchmen almost as much as that of the English theatre worries Englishmen, writes a correspondent in the Morning Post. At least, that is the impression to be gathered from the jeremiads that appear so frequently in the Paris Press. Indeed, the French critics appear at times a little unreasonable, and if they were compelled to go the round of the London theatres they might perhaps moderate their complaints and be a little more charitable at home. For one thing, there are no American plays in Paris. The French have a sincere admiration for and are full of gratitude to their gallant allies, but they draw the line at putting on their plays. In their logical, sensible way they declare that if they have to fall back upon bad stuff it will at least have the saving grace of being French. Even the music halls try to preserve a Gallic atmosphere, and, indeed, in places like the Lune Rousse, there is wit and intelligence, and nothing Transatlantic at all.

But the mere absence of American productions of itself cannot make a theatre, and only an Englishman who has survived the London theatrical seasons of the great war could be content with the drama as it at present exists in France. No doubt it is pleasant to live in a land where "music" is not deemed essential to a theatrical success, where the managers have the courage to put on really new plays, and where you have a reasonable opportunity of seeing classics that are genuinely entertaining. On the other hand, there is a curious contrast between the amazing vitality of the new France that has swept forward from the trenches and the stagnant condition of the theatre.

THE COMEDIE FRANCAISE.

It would be unpardonable for a British correspondent to repeat what the ordinary young French officer has to say about the Comédie Française. The Englishman, as a rule, has a sneaking affection for the house of Molière. He has probably learnt French within its hospitable walls; when he was a poor undergraduate he was able, thanks to it, to understand Molière and try hard to understand Racine at a modest price; he thinks that some of its sociétaires, Mlle. Pierat, MM. Feraudy and Max are "jolly good." But he must be lukewarm in his praises in the presence of young France. The Comédie Française, according to young France, is dead, and even the foreigner must admit that its direction is singularly unenterprising. There is much that is excellent, but there is no freshness. Thus one of its latest ventures was "Les Soeurs d'Amour" of Bataille. It is the sort of play beloved by the great British sisterhood which wants "a good cry"; all the "technique" lavished upon it cannot hide its musty flavour. Another recent effort was a representation of "Les Perses" of Aeschylus, which proved conclusively that the most cultured nation in Europe has its lapses.

Apart from the classics, the programme generally consists of a play of yesterday. The war, however, has played havoc among the plays of yesterday. For example, who can now take interest in the iniquities of the Marquis de Priola? The blame for this state of things is ascribed by Frenchmen to the fact that it is actors who really choose the plays for the Comédie Française, and, like most Englishmen, they think that actors cannot choose plays. Whatever be the reason, the Maison de Molière seems for the present to be content to live on its reputation.

NEW DEPARTURES.

What chances are there for a literary revival in the French theatre? To attempt to answer that question some classification is necessary. First, there is the Tragic theatre of Racine and its imitators. When plays are performed in the open air that theatre still finds favour. Secondly, there is the Romantic theatre, into which the agility of Rostand forced some life, but which has really been "quite dead" for years. Then there is the théâtre bourgeois, whose high priests are, on the one hand, Bataille, with his sentimentalism and his tears, and, on the other hand, Bernstein, that vigorous searcher after original sin. This theatre, with its insistence on social problems that have now passed away, holds out little hope for the future. Fourthly, there is the school which carries on the tradition of Antoine in Le Théâtre Libre, of Lugné-Poe in L'Oeuvre, and of Paul Fort in the Théâtre d'Art—and it is there that many Frenchmen look for salvation. Fantasy and imagination are its watchwords. Its efforts are for the moment tentative, but they are undoubtedly making headway.

To mention a few, there are the Comité d'Initiative Artistique de l'Odéon, which has already given some very successful Fridays at the famous theatre; the Théâtre Montjoie, which is searching after a dramatic synthesis of all modern artistic entertainments, combining poetry, music, the music hall, and sculpture; the theatre of Figuier, which has already secured one hit in "La Tragédie d'Alexandre" of M. Demasy; the representations of Shakespeare and Molière by M. Gémier, though here there is some criticism of his dependence on the Reinhardt method; the Théâtre du Vieux Colombier, with its experiments on stage direction; and the futurist school, with its tendency to farce. These tender buds may some day produce a great flower.

REVOLT AGAINST STATE CONTROL.

But what is interesting to Englishmen to note is that this renaissance movement is not only independent but profoundly scornful of the State-controlled theatre. We have been so often told in recent years that the State alone can save the English theatre, that we must have our plays produced by academics and artistic municipal councils, all working under the direction of a Heaven-sent Minister of Fine Arts. Against that very system French individualism is rising in revolt. There may be worse things than a commercial theatre after all.

VISITING JUSTICES' COMMITTEE.

The first meeting of the newly-constituted Visiting Justices' Committee for Mountjoy Male and Female Prison was held yesterday, the following members being in attendance:—Alderman James J. Kelly, J.P.; Alderman John Keogh, J.P.; Andrew Beattie, D.L., J.P., T.C.; Thomas Ronayne, J.P.; Michael J. Cooke, J.P.; Eugene M'Gough, J.P.; Michael M'Gann, J.P.; Thomas L. Plunkett, D.L., J.P.; Thomas Clarke, J.P.; William Bobbett, J.P.; Alfred Sexton, J.P.; Patrick J. Kennedy, J.P.; Joseph W. Dyas, J.P.; Henry A. Upton, J.P., and R. Reynell, J.P.

On the motion of Mr. Thomas Ronayne, J.P., seconded by Alderman Keogh, J.P., Mr. Thomas Clarke, J.P., was unanimously appointed Chairman of the Committee for the next twelve months.

The Committee having fixed the day and hour of future meetings, appointed the Justices for monthly duty, inspected the various departments of the prison, and transacted other business, adjourned.

WHAT TO DRINK.

Why trouble about shortage and high prices of Beer and Stout, when you can get good substitutes at a reasonable price in Wheatley's Hop Bitters (now called "Stym") and "Beacon Stout." Both non-intoxicating, good tonics, and palatable beverages. From all grocers, or wholesale from Wheatley and Bates, Ltd., 110 Mid. Abbey street, Dublin. J. T. Denham, Irish Agent.—(Advt.)

A Wonderful Word!

THE most wonderful word in our language is "reserve." It designates one of the most important factors in life—the winning factor!

In a physical contest it is the man with the greatest reserve of strength who WINS.

In warfare the commander who controls the largest body of reserve troops WINS.

In business the firm which passes the biggest annual amount to reserve WINS.

In a struggle with disease the man with the greatest reserve of bodily health WINS.

In the individual struggle for comfortable and secure existence the man with a reserve of money WINS.

The man who spends, as he gets it, the whole of his income, has no reserve: his daily bread depends on his daily exertions—he can't "turn round"—he misses opportunities of advancement—he dare risk nothing.

Money put by—even a little only—is a pillar of strength and may alter the whole aspect of a man's life.

Are YOU building up a reserve?

The SAFEST, EASIEST and MOST PROFITABLE way is to invest your savings regularly in where they will accumulate at the rate of nearly 5¼ per cent. Compound Interest—State guaranteed.

Not in the money you earn, but in the money YOU DON'T SPEND lies your future strength

THE MARCONI ACTION.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S CLOSING SPEECH.

Mr. Justice A. T. Lawrence, in the King's Bench Division yesterday, continued the arbitration proceedings on the Marconi Company's claim.

The Attorney-General resumed his summing up of the case on behalf of the Crown. He said that it was assumed by the Marconi Company that the wireless telegraphy would, immediately the Empire chain of stations was established, attract 30 1-3 per cent. of the cable traffic. That was a fundamental assumption of the most far-reaching character and consequences. There were only two scraps of fact employed to support the assumption of the company. One was the wireless service between San Francisco and Honolulu and the other the Spanish service of the Marconi Company. Regarding the Honolulu instance, the experience of that service now turned out to depend solely on information contained in a letter, the writer of which disclaimed exact knowledge and invited further inquiry. It was significant that such material should have been used at all. As for the Spanish service, the whole structure of the hypothesis relating to the 30 1-3rd per cent. was sought to be built up on the fact that in one solitary week in April the Spanish wireless service attained 16 per cent. of the cable traffic. The subsequent history of that service showed that the Post Office calculations of 10 per cent. were borne out.

Mr. Justice Lawrence—Both sides are, in the language of the ring, sparring. They will not come to close quarters. It is quite easy to convince me that both sides are wrong in their estimates. The difficulty I have is to get at close quarters, and see what is right.

The Attorney-General agreed that that was the real difficulty, and said his point was that, even if this evidence about Honolulu and the Spanish service were satisfactory, it was very slender material on which to build the proposition that the wireless chain would attract 33 1-3rd per cent. of the cable traffic, and that it would continue to grow.

The hearing was adjourned.

IRISH ROSE AND FLORAL SOCIETY'S SHOW.

The annual Show of the Irish Rose and Floral Society was opened at Belfast yesterday by the Countess of Roden.

The Lord Mayor of Belfast, who presided, said that he hoped that the Society, which had raised £400 for war charities, would receive the public patronage and the cordial support it so well merited.

The Countess of Roden, having referred to the work of the society during the war, said that she thought that the show was a fitting prelude to the victorious peace which they were to celebrate.

The show is for amateurs only, but a feature of the display was the special exhibit by Ulster nurserymen, including Messrs. Alexander Dickson and Sons, Belfast; Samuel M'Grady, Portadown; Hugh Dickson, Belmont.

BELGIAN GIRL'S DEATH IN DUBLIN.

In the Southern Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Swifte, K.C., Edward McMahon, 7 Harold's Cross Cottages, bread-van driver in the employment of Sir Joseph Downes, was charged by Inspector Kelly with wilful negligence in the management of a horse and bread-van, the property of Sir Joseph Downes, whereby he drove the van across the body of Mdlle. Maria Jeanne Allein, a Belgian lady, aged 20 years, employed in Messrs. Switzer's, Grafton street, and residing at 46 Rathmines road, inflicting such injuries as resulted in her death in the Meath Hospital.

Mr. J. W. Davis appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. E. H. Burne for the defence.

Inspector Kelly stated that when charged at Rathmines Police Station the accused said that he was on his right driving side of the Rathmines road, between Castlewood avenue and Rathmines Town Hall. He noticed the girl pass on the right side on a bicycle. When opposite the horse's head she turned to the left, and the bicycle skidded on the wet road, throwing her under the horse's head. He shouted and pulled up a bit further on, and, jumping down, helped the young lady to get up. He did all he could to avoid the accident.

The accused was remanded for a week, and on the application of Mr. Burne he was allowed out on his own bail of £20.

An inquest was held by Dr. Louis A. Byrne, City Coroner, at the Meath Hospital in the afternoon.

Evidence of identification having been given, James Greene, Railway street, said that the driver did all that was possible to pull up before the wheel passed over the girl's body.

William F. Crawford corroborated.

Dr. Diamond, house surgeon, deposed that the deceased was admitted to the hospital between two and three o'clock, and died two hours later. Death was due to shock and hemorrhage.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, and exonerated the driver from all blame. A rider was added tendering the jury's sympathy to the relatives of the deceased.

BISLEY MEETING.

NEW ZEALANDER WINS KING'S PRIZE.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

BISLEY CAMP, Friday.

The King's Prize was won by Sergt. T. Loveday (New Zealand), with an aggregate score of 253. Sergt. Loveday is a farmer, born and bred in New Zealand, and learned to shoot on his father's private range. He won the Military Medal in France. Major H. R. Northover (R.A.F.) was second with 248, and Armourer-Sergt. King (Royal Marine Artillery) third with a similar total. Sergt. E. E. Fulton (Queen's Westminster's), who won the Queen's Prize 32 years ago, was fourth with 246. Pte. R. W. Lockwood (7th Essex) won the tie for the King's Silver Medal against Q.M.S. Samways (late Dorsets). Pte. Lockwood would have been second in the King's Prize, but he put an inner on the wrong target, and finish tenth. The St. George's Vase was won by C.S. I. Newman (Canada), after a tie with Sergt. Pitts (late Herts Yeomanry). The winner and his three sons served in the Canadian Forces. Q.M.S. A. E. Strickland (Hythe Staff) beat Sergt. Beard in the tie shoot for Queen Mary's Gold Medal and £80. Sergt. Burgess (R.A.F.) won the Corporation of London Prize at one thousand yards after a tie, and the United Services Cup for the best aggregate in the competitions was won by the Royal Marines. Prince Albert presented the prizes, and, alluding to the importance of rifle shooting, said that it was the men with the rifle and bayonet who won the war. In the early stages our men were so proficient with the rifle that the Germans thought they were using machine-guns, of which we had only a few at that time. Prince Albert was made Vice-President of the National Rifle Association.

LAWN TENNIS.

THE IRISH CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The Irish Lawn Tennis Championships reached their penultimate stages last evening at the Fitzwilliam Club, and should the weather keep up a series of most interesting finals should be witnessed to-day. The play yesterday was characterised by some splendidly contested matches, notably those in the semi-final round of the gentlemen's singles, each of which went to five sets. The final to-day is almost certain to furnish a keen struggle, but probably Major Campbell will prove equal to the task set him of defeating V. Miley. The finalists for the ladies' championship are Miss Ryan and Miss Janet Jackson. The latter, who is the Irish lady golf champion, has done exceedingly well in the championship this week, and if she were to gain the double distinction to-day the achievement would be a notable one, but Miss Ryan is playing such fine tennis that her victory seems to be regarded as a foregone conclusion. The American lady and Colonel Day are also in the final of the mixed doubles, and Miss Day and Miss Durlacher and Mrs. Beatty and Miss Jackson should provide a capital final in the ladies' doubles. Details:—

GENTLEMEN'S SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP.—FOURTH ROUND—Rev. R. M. Gilbert beat J. F. Stokes—1-6, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4; Major Campbell beat W. G. Ireland—6-3, 1-6, 6-4, 6-0. SEMI-FINALS—V. Miley beat Rev. R. M. Gilbert—6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1, 6-0; Major Campbell beat Colonel Day—5-7, 6-2, 8-6, 6-2, 6-2.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. T. B. Bennett has purchased, on behalf of an English owner, the five-year-old Hawker, by Ardoon out of a mare by Morganatic.

American exchanges to hand show that Blue Wrack by Wrack, Kingstown Pier by Kroonstad, and Hellistar by Sunstar, won races at Aqueduct (L.I.), U.S.A., on June 30th.

Silvester (4 yrs.), who finished first for the Summer Handicap at Newmarket on Thursday, but was disqualified, is to be sold by auction at Sandown Park on Monday.

Tickets for the Curragh Meeting next week can be obtained at Messrs. Cook and Sons, Grafton street, after two o'clock on Monday, and on each morning of the races.

Mr. Oliver Heywood Jones, of 5 Regent road, Birkdale, Lancs, a well-known figure in the coursing and racing world, who died on April 29, has left £10,384. His courses calendars, stud books, and greyhounds he left to Richard Steel.

P. Grundy has taken over the tenancy of the Esker House, Lucan, training establishment, in succession to Mr. J. H. Burke, who has decided to relinquish training in order to devote all his time to his other business.

Carades, Tetrarchia, and Mademoiselle Foch left their training quarters in England on Thursday for the Curragh. The first-named is engaged in the Drogheda Memorial Stakes on Tuesday, and Tetrarchia and Mademoiselle Foch in the Irish Oaks on Wednesday.

At the meeting of the Jockey Club at Newmarket last Wednesday, in reply to a question from Lord Hamilton of Dalzell with regard to the granting of licences to new race companies, the Stewards stated that where the ownership of a racecourse had changed hands, or where a new race company was formed, application would have to be made to the Stewards of the Jockey Club for an entirely fresh licence.

PHŒNIX v. DUBLIN UNIVERSITY.

FIRST DAY.

Dull and unpleasant weather prevailed for the opening of this two-day fixture between Phœnix and Dublin University in Phœnix Park yesterday. The light throughout was none too good, and the rain, which frequently threatened, ultimately descended after Dublin University had scored only six runs in response to their opponents' total of 165, the play being limited to about three-and-a-half hours. Kennedy and Stanford opened for Phœnix, but the first-named was bowled without having scored. The scoring throughout was slow, and the only batsman to make a stand was Buttenshaw, who carried his bat for a patiently, if somewhat luckily, compiled 83, which included eight fours. Play will be resumed to-day at 1.30. Score:—

NOTTINGHAMSHIRE v. LANCASHIRE.

A century by Ernest Tyldesley, his second of the season, was the leading feature of Lancashire's batting on a slow wicket, and never difficult pitch, at Trent Bridge yesterday. During his stay of two hours and fifty minutes he was so comfortable that he gave no chance. Score:—

ESSEX v. SOMERSETSHIRE.

Essex had a good side at Leyton yesterday, and upon a hard wicket they bowled well enough to prevent Somerset getting more than 386 in five hours and three-quarters. The brothers Rippon put up 144 for the first wicket in two hours and a half, and Dudley Rippon (134) accomplished his record in first-class cricket. He did not give a chance in four hours and three-quarters, hitting a 5 and eleven 4's. Essex had an hour's batting. Score:—

	1st Inns.
Somerset	386
Essex	67 (2 wkts.)

KENT v. HAMPSHIRE.

Glorious weather was associated with this match at Tunbridge Wells yesterday. The wicket, though appearing good, was evidently not perfect, the ball requiring watching, and the visitors, who secured first knock, never scored with freedom, though they registered 237 at the rate of a run per minute. Mellé, who obtained 31 of 50 for the first wicket, made several good shots. Newcombe (37) assisted Mead (63) to add 54 for the fourth wicket in three-quarters of an hour, whilst the latter batted two hours and a half. Woolley secured the best analysis with 5 wickets for 70. At the close Kent, with six wickets in hand, were only 25 behind, Seymour being 77, not out. Score:—

Hampshire	237
Kent	212 (4 wkts.)

SUSSEX v. GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

In this match, which opened at Hastings yesterday, Gloucester occupied the wickets until half-past five o'clock, compiling the useful total of 386. A mist caused an early closure, Sussex then being 69 for 4 wickets. Score:—

Gloucestershire	386
Sussex	69 (4 wkts.)

WORCESTERSHIRE v. AUSTRALIANS.

Worcester gave a poor batting show against the Australians yesterday. The home side made quite a promising start, the luncheon score being 62 for 2 wickets, but later the side went all to pieces, and 120 was all they could muster. The Australians scored 252 for 4 wickets. Score:—

Worcestershire	120
Australians	252 (4 wkts.)

YORKSHIRE v. LEICESTERSHIRE.

At Huddersfield yesterday Yorkshire fared poorly on a good wicket, but at the close of play they were in a deficit of only 8 runs. Score:—

Yorkshire	215
Leicestershire	223

SURREY v. MIDDLESEX.

Brilliant weather prevailed at Kennington Oval yesterday. Middlesex increased their score by 65, and then closed at 363 for 9 wickets, the innings lasting six hours. Surrey were dismissed for 403 in four hours and ten minutes. Score:—

Middlesex	*363 (9 wkts.)
Surrey	403

*Innings declared.

WARWICKSHIRE v. NORTHAMPTONSHIRE.

Warwickshire at Birmingham yesterday declared at 380 for 9 wkts., but Northants responded finely, and at the close of play the visitors' total was 185 for 5 wickets.

SUMMER ASSIZES.

COUNTY MAYO.

DISTRICT INSPECTOR'S APPEAL.

The hearing of cases in the Mayo Summer Assizes was continued in Castlebar yesterday by Mr. Justice Moore.

Neil Tolan, Pollsharanague, Foxford, who was charged with the murder of his brother, was convicted of manslaughter, and acting on a strong recommendation for mercy made by the jury, his lordship inflicted a sentence of only three months' imprisonment.

In the Record Court, before Mr. Justice Dodd, Captain Scott, District Inspector, Westport, appealed against an order of the County Court Judge in giving judgment against him for £25, the amount of damages awarded by a special jury in an action brought against him by John McLoughlin, a minor, suing through his father, for false imprisonment. The action arose in connection with the Milling murder.

Having heard the arguments, his lordship agreed to state a case for the King's Bench Division.

COUNTY DOWN.

LABOURER SENTENCED FOR ARSON.

At the County Down Assizes, Patrick Bannon, a young labourer, of Ballymaginathy, pleaded not guilty to arson at Ballymaginathy, on 29th May, when stores, flax, and tow, connected with Edward McNulty's scutch mill, were burned, the damage exceeding £3,000. The prisoner was found guilty, and Mr. Justice Pim sentenced him to six months' imprisonment with hard labour.

COUNTY FERMANAGH.

GRAND JURY AND THE ROYAL IRISH CONSTABULARY.

The Fermanagh Grand Jury passed the following resolution at the recent Assizes:—

"That the Grand Jury of the County Fermanagh desire to express their admiration for the splendid conduct of the Royal Irish Constabulary in the discharge of their duty in the present trying time, and their warm sympathy with the relatives of those who have lost their lives; and that His Majesty's Government should insure the life of every member of the Royal Irish Constabulary for £1,000, to ensure that their dependents will be properly provided for in addition to their pension."

THE WESTPORT MURDER.

LOCAL RATEPAYERS' BURDEN.

The business of the Mayo Summer Assizes was continued in Castlebar yesterday.

Mr. Justice Dodd, presiding in the Record Court, heard the appeal of the Westport Urban Council against that portion of the County Court Judge's decision in which he ordered that three-fifths of the decree for £6,000, awarded to Mrs. Milling, widow of the late Mr. Milling, R.M., who was murdered on the 29th March last, be levied off the Urban District of Westport. The Mayo County Council, as well as other public bodies, had also appealed against the order making the county-at-large responsible for two-fifths of the decree.

Having heard evidence, and considered all the circumstances, his lordship changed the area of charge, and ordered that the entire amount of £6,000 be levied off the Westport Urban District, and the district electoral divisions of Westport Rural and Kilmeena, which adjoin the town, and which constituted the boundaries of the military area defined by the recent proclamation.

To raise the amount off this area a levy of 9s. 5d. in the pound would be required. It is stated that as a result of the decree the rates in Westport Urban District will next year amount to 25s. in the £, while those in the rural district electoral divisions will be approximately 17s. in the £.

GERMAN WAR SECRETS.

HINDENBURG VERSUS BETHMANN HOLLWEG.

Herr Helfferich, the German ex-Vice-Chancellor, gives some interesting particulars in his memoirs of the resignation of von Bethmann Hollweg, and the acceptance of the Peace resolution in July, 1917. The Handelsblad summarises this passage as follows:—

When the Bethmann Hollweg crisis became acute Herr Helfferich as Vice-Chancellor conversed with leaders of the Reichstag groups. Dr. Stresemann, the National Liberal leader, told him that the point of view of Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff would be of high importance in determining the attitude of his group towards the Chancellor. He knew that General Ludendorff had decided to resign should von Bethmann Hollweg remain in office.

Herr Helfferich became so furious at this statement that he hit the table with his fist. He considered such talk infamous. He would ask the Chancellor to let General Ludendorff immediately know his opinion. While on the way to the Chancellor Herr Helfferich learned from von Payer, leader of the Progressists, had reported the remarks of an officer at the Main Headquarters to one of the Progressist deputies that it was the duty of the Progressist group to declare that Hindenburg and Ludendorff did not wish to co-operate with von Bethmann Hollweg any longer. Herren Erzberger and Stresemann had received the same information for their groups. General Ludendorff replied to the telegraphic statement of this allegation to von Bethmann Hollweg the same evening:—"I did not instruct an officer to tell a deputy that I cannot co-operate with the Chancellor any longer."

This denial concerned the officer, but not the question itself which was at stake. At the very moment that this message was despatched Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff had already asked the Emperor to accept their resignations should the Chancellor remain in office. The Vice-Chancellor did not know anything on the subject when he went to the party leaders to negotiate about the Peace resolution of Herr Erzberger. Those leaders informed him that they considered the resignation of the Chancellor inevitable because they, who were better informed than the Vice-Chancellor, saw no other way out.

The Emperor had the text of the Peace resolution telephoned to headquarters. General Ludendorff at once declared himself against it. Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff were summoned to Berlin. Meanwhile Herr von Bethmann Hollweg had informed the Emperor that he considered his resignation desirable because he could no longer co-operate with the Army Command and the Reichstag. On Friday morning, July 13, the Chancellor sent in his written request for his resignation to the Emperor, before Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff arrived in Berlin.

The deliberations between the Generals, Herr Helfferich, and the leaders of Reichstag groups concerning the resignation of von Bethmann Hollweg and the Peace resolution lasted the whole day until nine o'clock in the evening. Meanwhile the Emperor had decided to appoint Dr. Michaelis after consulting with Marshal von Hindenburg on the choice of a successor to von Bethmann Hollweg. The leaders of the National Liberals, Democrats, Socialists, and the Centre were willing to accept the Peace resolution against this desire of the Government and the Army Command.

Further negotiations followed, the Peace resolution being postponed for the time being. However Vorwärts published the resolution, rendering further negotiations useless if any success was to be derived from the resolution. The new Chancellor, Dr. Michaelis, was of opinion that he could agree with it. In his speech in the Reichstag on July 19 he said this with the notorious addition, "as I interpret it." These words were an improvisation. The statement which had been agreed upon with the party leaders did not include them.

JUDGES AT DUBLIN HORSE SHOW.

On account of the urgency of publishing the schedule of prizes for the Dublin Horse Show this year it was found impossible to obtain the acceptance of invitations from gentlemen to officiate as judges in time to appear in the Prize List as usual. The following have been appointed, and have agreed to act:—

Referee—Right Honble. the Earl of Coventry, 1 Balfour Place, Park Lane, W.

Thoroughbred Stallions, Yearlings, and Brood Mares—Major F. Fetherstonhaugh, Tilstone House, Tarporley, Cheshire.

Heavy-Weight Hunters—Lieut.-Colonel H. M. Wilson, Barmore, Whitechurch, Salop.

Medium Weight Hunters—Hon. A. E. Parker, Norton Curlieu, Warwick.

Light-Weight Hunters—Captain T. Wickham-Boynton, Estate Office, Burton Agnes, Driffield.

Polo Ponies and Riding Cobs and Ponies—General Sir Bryan Mahon, K.C.B., Naval and Military Club, London, W.

Harness Horses—Arthur E. Evans, Vronheg Hall, Bronwylfa, Wrexham, and A. W. Hickling, Wing Old Hall, Oakham.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT OPTION.

The Imperial Government, says a Reuter's message from Melbourne, is now asking for an option over an additional half million tons of wheat which will be subject to review in the event of the new season not yielding a sufficient surplus to supply the adjacent markets.

TREATMENT OF PRISONERS OF WAR.

LORD NEWTON'S LIBEL ACTION.

VERDICT OF £5,000 DAMAGES.

Evidence was heard yesterday in the King's Bench Division, London, before the Lord Chief Justice and a special jury, in the action in which Lord Newton sues the Associated Newspapers, Ltd., for libel.

The words complained of appeared in the Daily Mail, the allegation being that in a debate Lord Newton joked and sneered at the sufferings of British prisoners. The plaintiff was then in charge of the Prisoners of War Department.

Lord Newton was recalled by Mr. Hogg, K.C., his counsel, to rebut a suggestion by the defence that in other speeches besides the one principally in question he showed a lack of sympathy with the prisoners. One speech contained the passage:—"As far as I am concerned, it is the prisoners themselves in whom I am interested, and it will always be my object, as long as I occupy the position I do, to facilitate by every effort in my power the exchange of these unfortunate men."

Lord Newton told the Court that that speech showed that he was prepared to go to excessive lengths on their behalf, to the extent even of sacrificing part of the national dignity. He stated that during the debate in which he replied to attacks by the Northcliffe Press, several speakers preceded him and commented on these attacks. Speaking of the conference at the Hague with German delegates, the plaintiff said that he could mention a very telling incident of the effect on the negotiations of the Northcliffe attacks. The Germans put in a reservation which was largely due to the attitude adopted by the Northcliffe Press.

The Lord Chief Justice advised counsel not to pursue the point further. It was going into political matters.

Plaintiff said that if the Daily Mail attacks had ceased in June, 1918, he would have taken no action, but they persisted till December, when British prisoners were returning, and the attacks were, therefore, likely to do him most harm.

MR. JUSTICE YOUNGER'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. Justice Younger, who accompanied Lord Newton to the Hague, and was Chairman of the Committee investigating the cases of German ill-treatment of prisoners, said that Lord Newton's attitude was one of extreme solicitude for the prisoners in Germany. His great desire was to obtain the internment of as many as possible in neutral countries. Lord Newton, the witness added, was one of the most potent negotiators we could have sent to Holland, because after a time the German delegates had the most profound confidence in him, and were willing to accede to the requests made by him, which, the witness was sure, they would not have done if they had not had that confidence.

Counsel—Is it true that he was a flabby negotiator, or one that did not mean business?

Sir Robert Younger—Quite the contrary.

The Archbishop of Canterbury said that Lord Newton was sympathetic in the highest degree towards the prisoners of war.

Lord Devonport also spoke of Lord Newton's interest in the prisoners. He said that he initiated the debate in which reference was made to Press attacks on Lord Newton.

Counsel for the defence asked if the Press campaign had reference to anything which appeared in the Daily Mail.

Lord Devonport—I should think it very likely. (Laughter.)

Sir Horace Rumbold, British Minister at Berne, was called to speak of Lord Newton's efforts for prisoners when he visited internment camps in Switzerland.

Mr. J. Hope, M.P., Parliamentary Whip in the first Coalition Government, said that he answered questions for Lord Newton's department in the House of Commons. Lord Newton was always inclined to take the sympathetic view as opposed to any rigid military views in dealing with prisoners of war. In their interests he was disposed to disregard mere punctilio, or what might give the German delegates occasion for a verbal score.

Cross-examined, witness said that Lord Newton's speech was severely criticised by some speakers in the House of Commons.

Dame Adelaide, Secretary of Sir Robert Younger's Committee, said that she visited the Hague with the Commission referred to, when the Daily Mail described her as the first woman diplomatist. Lord Newton, she stated, was always zealous in the prisoners' interests.

This concluded the plaintiff's case.

Defendants did not offer any evidence.

In summing up, the Lord Chief Justice said that it might be thought that, had Lord Newton had more time to reflect on the possible light in which his observations might be regarded by those who were not thoroughly convinced of his sympathy for the prisoners, he might have hesitated before saying what he did in replying to the Press attacks upon him. But the jury had not to decide whether, in the light of subsequent events, he was wise and discreet in the course he took.

After twenty minutes' deliberation, the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff, with £5,000 damages.

Judgment was given for the plaintiff accordingly, with costs.

The announcement of the damages caused a sensation in court, and Lord Newton's friends crowded round him with congratulations on the result.

THE ROYAL IRISH CONSTABULARY.

TIPPERARY GRAND JURY'S RESOLUTION.

MR. MACPHERSON'S LETTER OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

The following correspondence has passed between Mr. Justice Kenny, who is at present on Circuit, and the Chief Secretary:—

Judges' House, Clonmel,
15th July, 1919.

The Right Hon. the Chief Secretary.

SIR,—At the request of the Grand Jury of the South Riding of the County of Tipperary, I beg to enclose you a copy of a resolution passed by that body on the occasion of the opening of the Assizes in this town on yesterday, the 14th inst.—I am, yours truly,

W. KENNY, Judge of Assize.

COUNTY OF TIPPERARY, SOUTH RIDING.
Clonmel Summer Assizes, 14th July, 1919.

Resolution passed by Grand Jury at above Assizes:—Proposed by Major Samuel Phillips and seconded by Richard Lloyd Pennefather:—"That the High Sheriff and Grand Jury of the South Riding of County Tipperary desire to express their admiration for the splendid conduct of the Royal Irish Constabulary in the discharge of their duties at the present trying and disturbed times, and their warm sympathy with the relatives of those who have lost their lives or suffered in doing their duty.—Samuel Phillips, Richard Lloyd Pennefather."

17th July, 1919.

DEAR MR. JUSTICE KENNY,—I am in receipt of your letter of the 15th instant, forwarding a copy of a resolution passed by the Grand Jury of the South Riding of County Tipperary. His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant and I are much gratified with the expression of admiration for the services which are rendered by the Royal Irish Constabulary in the discharge of their duties, and I shall have much pleasure in forwarding the resolution to the Inspector-General for communication to the members of the Force in the County. I shall also see that the expression of sympathy in the last part of the resolution is conveyed to those for whom it is intended.—Yours, very sincerely,

(Sgd.) IAN MACPHERSON.

The Right Hon. Mr. Justice Kenny.

THE CHURCH OF IRELAND.

The Curacy of St. Werburgh's, Dublin, is vacant by the appointment of the Rev. H. St. C. Jennings to the Incumbency of Finglas. That incumbency was, in the first place, offered to the Rev. Chancellor Hemphill, D.D., who, however, did not accept it.

The annual meeting of the Killala and Achonry Diocesan Synod will be held in the Parochial Hall, Ballina, on Tuesday, the 22nd inst., at 12 o'clock.

The Incumbency of Grey Abbey, Diocese of Down, vacant by the death of the Rev. H. C. Waddell, has been filled by the appointment of the Rev. Canon Twist-Whatham, Rector of Newtownards, who has also been appointed Chaplain to Lord Londonderry.

THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND ENABLING BILL.

In the House of Commons the Enabling Bill will be in charge of Sir Robert Williams, who hopes to introduce it on an early date. It is believed that the Government will give facilities for the second reading in the autumn session in October, and that the promoters have no intention of suggesting amendments. That course will be left to the opponents of the bill, who, it is expected, will ask for a definition of the relation of Parliament to the Ecclesiastical Committee of the Privy Council on what they will claim should be clearer lines. Should it be proposed to schedule the report of Convocation, containing the Constitution of the Church Assembly, to the bill, it will be resisted on the ground that the delay which it would create would be intolerable.

COURTMARTIAL SENTENCES ON AUSTRALIAN SOLDIERS.

A Melbourne telegram, dated Thursday, says:—Mr. Millen has announced the reduction or remission of the sentences on naval and military offenders, and also of civil offenders against the Commonwealth laws on the occasion of the Peace celebrations, and the Imperial Government has been asked to make a generous remission of court-martial sentences on Australian soldiers.

BREAK-UP OF AUSTRIA.

A RUMANIAN PROTEST.

Now that peace has been concluded with Germany, writes a Rumanian correspondent of the Morning Post, it remains for the Peace Conference to settle the fate of Austria-Hungary and the satellites of the Central Empires. The chief problem of the day is the partition of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, a problem in which Rumania is one of the Powers most directly interested. Unfortunately, after her enormous sacrifices made for the common cause, Rumania finds herself forced to bargain for what is due to her.

By preventing the Rumanian Army from advancing into Hungary and entering Budapest, so as to annihilate the revolution, the "Four" have allowed the Hungarian bands to become a serious menace. The result of this policy soon became evident. The Bohemians found themselves in a dangerous situation, and were forced to treat with Bela Kun, the Jew who plays the part of terrorist dictator.

Nor is this the only or the gravest wrong done by the Conference to Rumania. The Entente concluded with Rumania before she entered the war a treaty by which she was to receive the Rumanian provinces of Austria-Hungary up to a definite frontier. After all the calamities suffered by their country, the Rumanians hoped at least to realise the union of all their fellow nationals. Unhappily, this treaty is no more than "a scrap of paper."

Rumania is being deprived of half the Banat, a Rumanian province. Nor is this all. Among the points now being discussed with Admiral Koltchak is one relating to Bessarabia, the fate of which "will be settled by the Peace Conference." Yet Bessarabia has formed part of the Kingdom of Rumania for over a year. The National Assembly of Bessarabia unanimously voted in favour of annexation to Rumania, from which it was torn by violence in 1812 and 1878. Is Russia, in its state of anarchy, to receive a gift of two and half million Rumanians?

Further, the Peace Conference wishes to impose upon an Allied State, which, owing to its importance, follows immediately after the Great Powers, certain conditions affecting the foreign minorities living in the country. Such a demand is an infringement of Rumanian sovereignty. Finally, it is said, though it seems beyond belief, that there may be question of restoring to Bulgaria part of the Dobrudsha, which, since 1913, has belonged to Rumania. It is inconceivable that the most odious of our enemies should thus be strengthened at the cost of Rumania.

The condition of Rumania to-day is terrible. Correspondence is still impossible, and goods despatched do not reach their destination. The inhabitants are suffering from want of everything; prices are fantastically high, and 58 francs represent the value of a sovereign. Lord Robert Cecil pledged the British Government never to abandon Rumania. Was it for no better reward that she lost over half a million men, suffered two invasions, and incurred a debt of 12,000,000,000 francs?

MISHAP TO THE MARTINSYDE AEROPLANE.

A St. John's telegram, dated Thursday, says: By 10.30 p.m. (Greenwich mean time) the wreckage of the Martinsyde aeroplane had been removed from the field where the mishap occurred to the tent in which it was previously housed. Stock was taken of the extent of the damage by Mr. Raynham, who was philosophically smoking his favourite briar pipe during the process, and whose verdict is that this smash has been about as destructive to the present machine as the first smash was to the original one. While he says that he is awaiting orders from his firm as to his future action, the mechanics do not disguise their belief that any future effort will be abandoned, and they expect to leave for England, with everything that can be salved, on board the steamer Grampian, early next week.

BREAK-UP OF AUSTRIA.

A RUMANIAN PROTEST.

Now that peace has been concluded with Germany, writes a Rumanian correspondent of the Morning Post, it remains for the Peace Conference to settle the fate of Austria-Hungary and the satellites of the Central Empires. The chief problem of the day is the partition of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, a problem in which Rumania is one of the Powers most directly interested. Unfortunately, after her enormous sacrifices made for the common cause, Rumania finds herself forced to bargain for what is due to her.

By preventing the Rumanian Army from advancing into Hungary and entering Budapest, so as to annihilate the revolution, the "Four" have allowed the Hungarian bands to become a serious menace. The result of this policy soon became evident. The Bohemians found themselves in a dangerous situation, and were forced to treat with Bela Kun, the Jew who plays the part of terrorist dictator.

Nor is this the only or the gravest wrong done by the Conference to Rumania. The Entente concluded with Rumania before she entered the war a treaty by which she was to receive the Rumanian provinces of Austria-Hungary up to a definite frontier. After all the calamities suffered by their country, the Rumanians hoped at least to realise the union of all their fellow nationals. Unhappily, this treaty is no more than "a scrap of paper." Rumania is being deprived of half the Banat, a Rumanian province. Nor is this all. Among the points now being discussed with Admiral Koltchak is one relating to Bessarabia, the fate of which "will be settled by the Peace Conference." Yet Bessarabia has formed part of the Kingdom of Rumania for over a year. The National Assembly of Bessarabia unanimously voted in favour of annexation to Rumania, from which it was torn by violence in 1812 and 1878. Is Russia, in its state of anarchy, to receive a gift of two and half million Rumanians?

Further, the Peace Conference wishes to impose upon an Allied State, which, owing to its importance, follows immediately after the Great Powers, certain conditions affecting the foreign minorities living in the country. Such a demand is an infringement of Rumanian sovereignty. Finally, it is said, though it seems beyond belief, that there may be question of restoring to Bulgaria part of the Dobrudcha, which, since 1913, has belonged to Rumania. It is inconceivable that the most odious of our enemies should thus be strengthened at the cost of Rumania.

The condition of Rumania to-day is terrible. Correspondence is still impossible, and goods despatched do not reach their destination. The inhabitants are suffering from want of everything; prices are fantastically high, and 56 francs represent the value of a sovereign. Lord Robert Cecil pledged the British Government never to abandon Rumania. Was it for no better reward that she lost over half a million men, suffered two invasions, and incurred a debt of 12,000,000,000 francs?

MISHAP TO THE MARTINSYDE AEROPLANE.

A St. John's telegram, dated Thursday, says: At 10.30 p.m. (Greenwich mean time) the wreckage of the Martinsyde aeroplane had been removed from the field where the mishap occurred to the tent in which it was previously housed. Stock was taken of the extent of the damage by Mr. Raynham, who was philosophically smoking his favourite briar pipe during the process, and whose verdict is that this smash has been about as destructive to the present machine as the first smash was to the original one. While he says that he is awaiting orders from his firm as to his future action, the mechanics do not disguise their belief that any future effort will be abandoned, and they expect to leave for England, with everything that can be salved, on board the steamer Grampian, early next week.

PROPERTY AT AUCTION.

II.

(FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Our previous article ended in a note of sentimental regret at the inevitable change in the old order of ownership. But the change bore witness to such bustling commerce in land, and to such gratification alike to seller and to buyer, that the regret could be no more than sentimental, and short lived even at that. Where the well-being of the outgoing as well as the incoming owner was established, the circumstances could not be regarded as otherwise than fortunate in the widest sense.

As might be expected, a great many people sought reasons for the boom, and an equally large number offered them. The majority of the inquiries had no other motive than the curiosity that prompts the inevitable "Why?" when anything happens, while some of the proffered explanations were far-fetched enough to be fantastical. Such, surely, was the suggestion that the imminence of aerial transport had made land in remote and inaccessible districts more valuable.

WAR EFFECTS.

There is no need to labour an argument about the effect of the war. Everyone is aware—many are painfully so—of what happened when the submarine menace threatened our food supplies. Land—the basis of all security, assumed an importance which it never possessed before. The existence of the Empire depended on it. The margin of cultivation extended suddenly and widely. Tillage became compulsory, but voluntary crop raising was embarked in to an astonishing extent. Front gardens were trenched for potatoes, and ground hitherto used for dumping builders' rubbish and general refuse was worked by allotment holders as small market gardens. To possess land was to control a sure source of wealth. The cattle fattened on it brought prices hitherto undreamt of, the rents paid for grazing rose to a figure which the most enterprising dairyman had never contemplated, and the Government guarantee of the price of crops removed every element of risk from unlimited agriculture. It paid, and paid well, to purchase land at almost any price, and once the boom was fairly started, the fascination of the thing, if it lacked any sounder justification, was certain to ensure its development.

Out of evil had come good. The war had compelled an access of energy in land cultivation that increased the national welfare. Cut off largely from the sources of outside food supplies, people discovered how much could be produced at home. The pulse of the property market quickened without becoming feverish. What wonder if owners, many of whose estates carried burthens as old as they were irksome, were eager to avail themselves of an opportunity so unexpected and so favourable, and equally what surprise was it that those who saw fortune in the possession of broad acres should be willing to pay handsomely for the means of securing that fortune? Let economic theorists shake their heads as they will, the result of all the amazing buying and selling of the last few years seems to be that to-day Ireland is full of money. Irish bank deposits are quoted in millions, and it is noteworthy that numbers of big purchases have been made without outside financial assistance.

How long will it last? The question is put over and over again by people who forget that the gift of prophecy is no longer common among men. As far as indications warrant a conclusion, there appears to be no reason why there should be any serious falling off in the prosperous results of the judicious management of land.

MODIFYING INFLUENCES.

There are modifying influences. To deny them would be foolish, to ignore them culpable. The importation from the Colonies and foreign countries of foodstuffs must necessarily affect the prices of home-grown or home-raised articles, and ultimately steady the traffic in land. The arrival of many ship-loads of dead meat and poultry at an English port was recorded the other day, and there is a certainty that some part of the war accumulated millions of tons of wheat in Australia will find its way here. The operation of such a modifying influence within proper limits is healthy, and not to be regretted. It is only when the demands of labour and the mischief of political unrest discourage or prevent home agricultural enterprise that incalculable evil may be wrought, and the country, as a whole, thrown back into confusion and distress. It is to be hoped that those most directly concerned will see to it that folly be not allowed to wreck the national prosperity.

AN INTERESTING FEATURE.

A very interesting feature of the changing ownership is apt to go unnoticed, at all events for a time. There are evidences of a tendency of country families to gather in and about Dublin. It is only a tendency, and so far slight, but it is undeniably there, and judging by the applications from many parts of Ireland for residences around the metropolis, it seems likely to increase.

Is Dublin about to see a revival of some of its old glories as a place of fashionable residence? The very suggestion is fascinating. Leaving out of consideration the cause of such a come back, who would not welcome the return to the capital county of a resident gentry? One hesitates to conjecture what it might mean, or how it might affect the destiny of Ireland. It is, as has been stated, only a tendency at present; it bids fair to become a reality. To speculate would be rash, to draw conclusions premature. But slight as it is, the tendency warrants us to hope, and to hope is to dream. And the dream—well, it is one very dear to the heart of every Irishman.

SALE TUESDAY, 26TH AUGUST.

MOUNT TEMPLE, CLONTARF.

HANDSOME MODERN RESIDENCE & 65 ACRES OF LAND.

TWO MILES FROM CENTRE OF CITY, ADJOINING CLONTARF RAILWAY STATION AND TRAMS.

This fine property lies between the main roads to Howth and Malahide, with extensive frontages to both roads.

The Residence is an exceptionally well built and handsome modern structure, erected about fifty years ago by Sir James Calvert Stronge, Bart. It stands high on beautifully laid out terraced pleasure grounds, and commands views of Dublin Bay and Wicklow Mountains.

There is accommodation for a very large establishment, and special advantages for entertaining. Among the features of the Residence are a winter garden, a handsome billiardroom and ballroom.

The out-offices are extensive and in good order.

The gardens are sheltered and well stocked with fruit trees.

The pleasure grounds are carefully planned and beautified by ornamental lakes and terraces. They are planted with choice flowering shrubs. There are rose and old Dutch gardens, and numerous shaded cloister walks.

The Lands are of the finest quality for fattening or agricultural purposes, and are well fenced and watered.

The Clontarf Golf Club are tenants of about 40 acres for short term. The Links are a great attraction, and are beautifully kept.

The property is one capable of immense development, while possessing residential attractions of the highest order. For natural charms there are few residences in the County equal to Mount Temple.

The building frontages to the Malahide and Howth roads afford numerous ready-made sites for the erection of high-class houses. A great part of the property is valuable building ground.

From every point of view Mount Temple is one of the most attractive properties in the County Dublin, with vast possibilities.

The Residence and about 43 acres are held for 93 years unexpired, but terms have been arranged to extend this to a building lease for 250 years, if desired.

About 22 acres are held for a short term, free of rent. Possession will be given subject to some short term tenancies. Photographs, plans, orders to view, and Conditions of Sale from Messrs. FRANKS and OULTON, Solicitors for Owner, 21 Lower Fitzwilliam street.
